3415 PATRICK HENRY JEWETT (Joshua R.[1672], Joseph[750], Nathan[286], Joseph[109], Joseph[22], Joseph[4], Edward[1]), was born in Granby, Conn., March 3, 1825. He married in Jefferson Co., Ind., Mrs. Mary Jane Hay, daughter of Samuel B. and Elizabeth (Hay) Wells. She was born in Jefferson Co., Oct. 24, 1828. By her first husband she had one son, Charles L., who, on reaching manhood, had his name changed to Jewett. He is a lawyer, and is very prominent in Indiana politics. He was Chairman of the State Democratic Committee, and in 1896 was a candidate for Congress; has been a member of the Legislature several terms.

Patrick Henry Jewett was a very distinguished, and one of the oldest lawyers in Indiana, which state he settled in when a young man. On the outbreak of the Civil War he organized a company of soldiers of which he was the Captain and participated in that struggle. He returned to Indiana where he followed his profession. He was District Attorney several years; Judge of Probate eight years, and Judge of the Court of Common Pleas eight years. After serving his state and country faithfully, and with honor, he died in Jeffersonville, Ind., Feb. 27, 1896. His widow died Sept. 28, 1905.

3425 HON. SHERMAN SKINNER JEWETT (Josiah[1673], Joseph[780], Nathan[236], Joseph[109], Joseph[22], Joseph[4], Edward[1]), was born in Moravia, N. Y., Jan. 17, 1818. He married in Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 14, 1839, Deborah Dusenbury, who was born in Nassau, N. Y., Jan. 25, 1822, daughter of Benjamin and Hannah (Harris) Dusenbury.

From the History of Buffalo and Erie Co., by H. Perry Smith.—"His early life (Mr. Jewett's) was passed upon his father's farm, engaged in such work as he could do to assist in the support of a large family. For three or four years after he became ten years of age, he attended the district school in winter. * * * * He appreciated the lack of opportunity in Moravia, and, favored by the suggestions of relatives, he intended to work for his uncle, Isaac Watts Skinner, who owned a small foundry in Buffalo and was a manufacturer of plows, mill castings and mill machinery. He left Moravia in company with a man who was taking a load of produce to market; consequently he walked nearly all the way to the Erie Canal at Jordon. There taking passage on a packet-boat, he arrived in Buffalo on the 3d of May, 1834. * * * * On reaching Buffalo he commenced work in his uncle's foundry, painting plows and cleaning castings.

"In the winter of 1834-35 he attended Silas Kingsley's high school. Afterwards for several months he applied himself to learning the moulder's trade; then acting as a clerk in the warehouse, taking the time of the men and other similar work, until Mr. Skinner was burned out. On Sept. 1st, 1836, a copartnership was formed consisting of Franklin Day, Francis H. Root and Sherman S. Jewett, under the firm name of Day, Root & Co. In a few months Mr. Day withdrew and Mr. Skinner took his place, changing the style of the firm to Skinner, Root & Co. In a few years Mr. Skinner and Mr. Root withdrew and a new firm was organized, composed of Thomas J. Dudley and Sherman S. Jewett, under the style of Dudley & Jewett. After two years of existence this firm was dissolved by Mr. Dudley selling his interest to Mr. Jewett, after which the business was continued by him alone until 1843, when Sherman S. Jewett and Francis H. Root established the firm of Jewett & Root, who continued to manufacture stoves. Business increased with them as rapidly as they could secure means with which to handle it. In 1854 the Chicago branch was opened in order to retain and increase their hold upon the trade of the growing West. In 1875 Josiah Jewett was admitted to the firm of Jewett & Root. In 1878 Mr. Root parted with his interest in the firm, thus dissolving a partnership of thirty-five years of prosperity. Then the firm of Sherman S. Jewett & Co. was formed, composed of Sherman S. Jewett, Henry C. Jewett, and Josiah Jewett. The house now having flourishing branches in Detroit, Chicago, Milwaukee, and San Francisco. Mr. Jewett has always been very energetic in the management of his business, and is still actively at the head of the firm in every sense of the word; (1884); is early at work and nearly the last to leave. He is never known to speculate, and is remarkable also for his keen insight into matters of finance and his intuitive knowledge of circumstances affecting future calculations. To all these is to be attributed his success in business, from which he has realized a handsome fortune, which he not only enjoys himself, but uses to increase the comfort of those connected with him, and to benefit many others with whom he has associated in other business enterprises and in various relations. His only amusement is fishing on the Niagara river, where he uses his elegant steam yacht, 'Titania,' and devotes himself with passionate energy to the destruction of perch, black bass and muscalonge.

"Mr. Jewett was elected to the Common Council in 1845, and served during 1845, 1846 and 1849. He was elected Mayor pro tem. two or three times, and served as such during the Mayor's absence. At this time occurred the Ohio Basin and Erie Basin fight in the Common Council, the advocates of each making every exertion to kill off the other. Mr. Jewett took a positive position that the city needed both, and the Council adopted this course, which has proved the most beneficial to the city of Buffalo.

"In 1878 Mr. Jewett received without any previous knowledge the nomination for Representative in Congress at the hands of the Republican party. Owing to his poor health he felt compelled to decline this unanimous and unsolicited nomination. In 1880 he was elected upon the Republican ticket as a Presidential Elector and cast his vote in the Electoral College for James A. Garfield and Chester A. Arthur.

"A meeting of citizens was held Aug. 5, 1868, at his home, to consider the subject of a public park. As a sequence the Park became an established fact in 1871. Mr. Jewett has been a Commissioner since the organization of the Board of Park Commissioners, and its President since 1879. Mr. Jewett was one of the founders of the Buffalo Club in 1867, a director during the first nine years of its existence, and its President in 1874.

"During the war of the Rebellion Mr. Jewett served on various committees, was a member of the Buffalo branch of the Christian Commission, and joined in every movement to aid and perpetuate the Federal Union. At all times he was among the foremost to aid in strengthening the power of the Government by his counsel, his personal labor and the use of his private means.

"His name also appears as one of the originators of the Falconwood Co., in 1869, and as its first President, holding the office until 1877. His relations with the Young Men's Association have been at times of a peculiar and impressive importance. In the year 1863, a meeting of nine gentlemen occurred at the old American Hall parlors, to discuss a project about buying St. James Hall and St. James Hotel, to improve the facilities of the Association. After several hours' discussion without any definite results, all mutually agreed to follow whoever led off in subscribing, and do the same. Mr. Jewett, as such leader, promptly solved the delicate problem by subscribing $3,000, and thus contributed to the success of the effort. In 1883, when a further scheme was suggested, looking toward the erection of a fire-proof building upon the property bounded by Washington, Clinton and Ellicott streets and Broadway, the first meeting of citizens was held at Mr. Jewett's house, at which time it was his privilege to again head the list of subscribers, which was completed so triumphantly, with universal approval. He was President of the Association in 1865.

"The Bank of Buffalo owes its origin to the efforts of Mr. Jewett and his friends. He has always been its President and is largely entitled to the credit of its success, which is without a parallel in the history of Buffalo Banks. The Manufacturers and Traders Bank of Buffalo also claims him as one of its originators and a director ever since. He was also one of the originators and a director of the Clinton Bank, during its entire existence. When it withdrew from business every stockholder was paid in full. Mr. Jewett has been a director of the Marine Bank since 1869 and is now a stockholder in several other banks.

"He was also an originator of the Buffalo Mutual Insurance Co., which had a most successful career and gained the entire confidence of all business circles. Finally, under the reorganized name of Buffalo Fire and Marine Insurance Co., it continued to increase in popularity until compelled to retire from business owing to the terrible losses suffered in the great Chicago fire of 1871. Then the three principal insurance companies of Buffalo—The Western, the Buffalo City and the Buffalo Fire and Marine, were all placed in bankruptcy and by the action of the Chicago creditors Mr. Jewett was appointed assignee of all. This was one of the most important works of his life and to it he applied himself with such zeal that in three years he received his official discharge from the entire work, which he had completed to the unbounded admiration of all interested parties. * * * *

"The Buffalo Fine Arts Academy is proud to include Mr. Jewett as one of its originators, who in its darkest hour endowed it with a permanent fund of $10,000, of which the interest could be used for its maintenance. Inspired by this act, however, the friends of the Academy at once raised another fund of similar amount to perform that service, and set apart the original donation as a distinct fund, to be called the Jewett fund, the interest to be devoted solely to the purchase of works of art for the Academy. Under the silent influence of this fund already (1884) a valuable collection of oil paintings now adorn the walls of the Academy and bear testimony to the thoughtfulness of the donor. Mr. Jewett served as curator of the Academy for eight years and was its President in 1865. He is a trustee of Forest Lawn Cemetery, in which he takes a deep interest.

"He was one of the earliest promoters of the construction of the Buffalo, New York and Philadelphia Railway and a director from 1867 to 1881. In 1876 he was called to the presidency. The affairs of the road needed just the ability which he brought to work. In order to provide feeders for this road Mr. Jewett and the friends of the enterprise constructed several narrow gauge roads which paid back to the stockholders more than the entire capital invested in them, and were finally sold at a handsome profit. At the same time the B. N. Y. & P. Railway had so improved that it was sold by Mr. Jewett so as to repay to the stockholders every dollar of the capital; thus saving to the city of Buffalo its $700,000 of stock which it took to encourage the building of the road. This is a record of integrity to the trust reposed in him, and it is without a parallel in the history of municipal investments in railroads. In all of the negotiations to effect a sale of the property, the point proposed by Mr. Jewett and maintained by him persistently was, that all of the stockholders, including the city, must share alike and receive full value for their stock. A reference to the daily journals of Buffalo will show how they tendered praise to him for the ability and honor displayed by him in the entire transaction. We quote from the Buffalo Courier of April 19, 1881:

"'The sale of the Buffalo, New York and Philadelphia Railroad would, under the ordinary circumstances which attend the disposition of a railroad, be in and of itself a matter of ordinary importance in these days of grand negotiations. But there are some points connected with the transfer of the Buffalo and Philadelphia, and antecedent to it, that make it a matter of unusual local interest. When Sherman S. Jewett plays anything like an important part, he is reticent to the last degree, and a newspaper man might as well interview the sphinx; but if he can give any valuable facts about the successful enterprise of another, or can speak of any brilliant stroke of diplomacy on the part of a neighbor or a friend, he is not only a free talker, but an enthusiastic one, and becomes exceedingly interesting. A personal experience with him during the time that he was working the B. N. Y. and P., up to a place where it could have recognition, bears us out in this, for it was next to impossible to get even an admission from him that he was rescuing the road from the utter ruin that threatened it. Indeed, Courier reporters gave him up, and almost uniformly reported him to the office as having nothing of importance to communicate. The interests of the city, if there were none other, compelled us to watch the attention paid to the B. N. Y. and P., and we recall some facts in connection with the history of the road which enable us to speak intelligently at this time. It was in the fall of 1876 that Mr. Sherman S. Jewett and Mr. George B. Gates took charge of the road in question; and it is no exaggeration to say that at that time the road was bankrupt and the stock worthless. The first mortgage bonds were put upon the market and sold very deliberately in 1876. We called attention to them at that time, believing them to be a safe investment under the then administration. They are now worth 110 and will go to a higher figure. Later in the same year the second mortgage bonds, drawing 10% interest, could only find a few purchasers; but Mr. Jewett retired all of these and issued a new series bearing seven per cent in their place. Within eighteen months all of this issue—a million dollars—has been placed at par and is now quoted at 110.

"'When Mr. Jewett took the road the floating debt was $1,250,000, something tremendous, all the facts considered. That debt is now all wiped out; and if any better evidence of masterly management can be cited, it does not occur to us at the present writing. It was under Mr. Jewett's management that all the narrow-gauge roads connecting with the Buffalo and Philadelphia were built and coal mines opened. By going outside of his road and levying legitimate tribute where he could, he extricated the B. N. Y. and P. from ruin and saved it to the stockholders, of which the tax-payers of Buffalo are no small number. The saving to Buffalo is nearly three quarters of a million of dollars or in round numbers, $700,000.

"'Now, anybody who is familiar with the alphabet of railroading or the manipulation of stocks, will readily understand that, moved by a less upright and patriotic motive, Mr. Jewett could have literally frozen out the city and the smaller stockholders and made himself absolute master of the situation. He didn't do this even though he could have made a handsome fortune out of it, but preferred to carry the whole load on his own shoulders for the benefit of everybody interested; and these facts and the resurrection of the road from nothingness, all considered, make the sale one of the most remarkable in the history of American railroads. We take infinite pleasure in placing to the credit of one of our most prominent citizens, a transaction so rare and so successful in every feature of it. Negotiations have been pending for the past five months, but had they not succeeded the property had been so thoroughly built up, Mr. Jewett would have paid a dividend next August.

"'The work of Mr. Jewett will be better appreciated, when it is remembered that his own very extensive business, both as a manufacturer and a banker, required a great deal of his time and attention, and assuredly these have not been neglected.

"'Mr. Jewett has one of the best business and diplomatic minds in this country. He is a thinker; and when he proceeds about negotiations of any kind he knows precisely what he is doing. There is no tricking about him, and when he puts a thing into the market, the fact that his name is back of it is ample guarantee that it is worth what he asks for it. This is a good enough record for any man, but it holds good through all Mr. Jewett's business career; and the railroad transaction under consideration is primarily valuable to us as revealing the fact that we have a modest business gentleman in our midst who is capable of dealing with large enterprises in the best possible style, with reference to the best interests of all concerned.'

"The assistance given to religious enterprises is also worthy of mention. The Washington Street Baptist Church, Prospect Ave. Baptist Church, Delaware Ave. Baptist Church, Rochester University and similar institutions elsewhere, some of other denominations can attest his liberality to them. In 1882 Mr. Jewett erected in Chicago a mercantile building which ranks among the first in that city of commercial palaces, and is valued at half a million dollars.

"In 1863 S. V. R. Watson was elected President of the Young Men's Association. The opposition candidate was Sherman S. Jewett, but to strengthen both tickets the names of six of the most prominent business men of the city, including both Messrs. Watson and Jewett, were placed on both tickets, so that whichever ticket was elected the president-elect might have their advice and influence in support of any plan that he might devise for obtaining a suitable building for the association, and although the heads of the tickets manifested none but the most friendly feeling, yet it cannot be denied that among their immediate personal friends no little feeling was shown. Time rolled on and Mr. Watson succeeded in obtaining a refusal of what was then known as the St. James property (now occupied by the Young Men's Association) for $112,000. The question then was, could an amount be raised by subscription which would render it safe for the Association to purchase the property? After carefully considering the matter, Mr. Watson invited eight of the most prominent business men of the city, including five on the ticket, to meet him at the American Hotel. In addition, some of the younger members of his committee who were on the building committee, were also invited. The evening arrived and Mr. Watson laid his plans before the meeting and took his seat. There was a dead pause for about five minutes. It was by far the largest scheme that had ever been planned in Buffalo; we had but few wealthy men. It is safe to say that there are two here now where there was one then, and of the wealthy men, of whom those present, were perhaps, the most prominent, it is safe to say that every one is now worth at least double the amount he was then. I mention this matter to show the great doubts that existed whether any such sum could be raised. At last Mr. S. S. Jewett arose. The writer, who was present as one of the building committee, is frank to confess that his heart sank within him. A most vivid recollection of the Y. M. A. election passed through his mind. The election, as before stated, had been an unusually excited one, and after it was over hot and bitter words passed between the younger men on the respective tickets. I had then but little personal acquaintance with Mr. Jewett. Would he heartily support a plan originating with a man who had just defeated him? A look at the anxious face of Mr. Watson showed me that the same thoughts were passing through his mind. It was not merely necessary that he should speak favorably of the plan; it was absolutely necessary to have the hearty and cordial support of the leading business men, and if a man of the standing of S. S. Jewett expressed the slightest doubt about the scheme, the thing was up. Fortunately he came loyally and nobly to our support. Over twenty years have elapsed, yet I remember his speech as if I had heard it yesterday. Said he: Mr. Watson and Gentlemen:—I have listened with great attention and the deepest interest to the details of Mr. Watson's plan. In my judgment there is no doubt as to what our duty is in the matter. The Young Men's Association is entitled to our most earnest support. It seems to me that the advantages of a great public library cannot be sufficiently extolled. It places within the reach of every family, for a mere trifle, the advantages of such a library as no private individual, however wealthy, can possess. The question is, what shall we do in regard to the plan before us? There is but one thing for us to do; we must do all in our power to carry it through. If there is any better plan it has not been shown. We have had too much throwing cold water on any plan that has been brought up. I have got thoroughly sick of hearing.—Well, the idea is a pretty good one, but can we not find a better one? I tell you, gentlemen, we want a little less seeing and a little more subscribing. Now, I have three propositions to make to you, gentlemen, and you may take either one of them. I will go in with you eight and purchase this building and present it to the Young Men's Association; or I will go in with you eight and build a fire proof building that will cost not less than $250,000; or I will give as much as any other man in Buffalo.

"From that moment the success of the project was secured. After consultation the nine men subscribed each $3000, and with this start the enterprise was pushed through to a successful conclusion. Comment is needless. In the words of the late Dean Richmond to one of the younger men of Mr. Watson's committee:—Young man, it is seldom you will find a man who, after he is beaten, will turn around and make an offer that might cost him $30,000 in order to carry through a project that his successful rival has originated. The name of S. S. Jewett should always be held dear by all friends of the Young Men's Association as one to whose loyal and unselfish support the institution owes so much of its present prosperity."

After a long and honorable life Mr. Jewett died in Buffalo, Feb. 28, 1897.

Children, born in Buffalo, N. Y.:

6019 Henry Clay, born Dec. 6, 1840; married (1st) in Dresden, Germany, Aug. 14, 1864, Louise E. Walther, daughter of Theodore and J. Pauline (Schierz) Walther; married (2d) in Erie, Pa., Oct. 21, 1897, M. A. Emma Schmidt, daughter of F. E. Schmidt. For a number of years Mr. Jewett was associated in business with his father in the firm of Sherman S. Jewett & Co., and also engaged in the manufacture of sole leather and other business enterprises. In East Aurora, N. Y., he owns and conducts one of the most up to date and one of the best stock farms in the country. On his farm is a mile race track which is entirely housed over so that his horses may be exercised at any time of the year and in all kinds of weather. This mile track encircles a half mile track which is open and is used in fair weather. Mr. Jewett breeds fine horses of the best type. A gentleman visiting the writer's office said: "I have been acquainted with Mr. Henry Jewett a number of years and it has never been my pleasure to meet a man I thought more honorable, upright and honest. He is a man of great determination and usually carries to a successful termination any project he undertakes; he is an affable, kindhearted gentleman and a true friend to the deserving." Owing to bad health Mr. Jewett, in 1906, removed to Pasadena, California, where he now resides, s. p.

3426 JOHN COTTON JEWETT (Josiah[1673], Joseph[780], Nathan[286], Joseph[109], Joseph[22], Joseph[4], Edward[1]), was born in Moravia, N. Y., Feb. 2, 1820. His boyhood days were spent on the farm with his father, assisting in the farm work summers, and attending district school during the winter, until he was seventeen years of age. He then went to Ann Arbor, Mich., to work in the store of his brother Samuel and subsequently became a partner.

Here he became acquainted with and married Miss Priscilla Boardman, whose parents resided there. Their marriage was celebrated in Ann Arbor Feb. 2, 1843. Some eight or ten years after their marriage they removed to Albion, where he conducted a mercantile business alone, and a few years later they removed to Buffalo, N. Y., where he resided, and where, with his sons and son-in-law, Risby Tucker, they built up a mammoth manufacturing business in refrigerators, bird cages, etc., etc. Mr. Jewett died in Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 18, 1904.

3430 JAMES HERVEY JEWETT (Josiah[1672], Joseph[730], Nathan[288], Joseph[100], Joseph[22], Joseph[4], Edward[1]), was born in Moravia, N. Y., Oct. 11, 1830. He married June 7, 1854, Mary Frances Colegrove, daughter of Dr. Bela H. and Eliza (Ives) Colegrove. She was born in Sardinia, N. Y., May 3, 1836, and died in Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 6, 1880. He married second, at Lansingburg, N. Y., Feb. 15, 1882, Isabel Mills, who was born in Lansingburg, June 7, 1845, daughter of Thomas and Helen (Reid) Mills. For thirty years Mr. Jewett was engaged in the boot and shoe business in Buffalo, N. Y., and in 1889 removed to Colorado. He saw possibilities in the village of Green Mountain Falls which consisted then of a hotel and a rooming house. He invested heavily there, building numerous cottages, an opera house and several stores, and transformed the small village into a prosperous summer resort; at the time of his death he owned practically all of the town. When the town was incorporated he was chosen Mayor and held the office until 1902, when he resigned. He died in St. Luke's Hospital, Denver, Col., Dec. 15, 1904. His widow resides in Troy, N. Y.

NINTH GENERATION

3571 JOHN GLINES JEWETT (Smith[1788], Samuel[338], Samuel[339], Samuel[117], Francis[24], Ezekiel[6], Maximilian[3], Edward[1]), was born at Meredith Bridge, now Laconia, N. H., Sept. 4, 1829. He married Dec. —, 1855, Caroline E. Shannon of Barnstead, N. H.

From "Illustrated Laconian":—"For nearly half a century Judge John G. Jewett has served the public in various positions of trust and honor, and he has been for many years one of the best known citizens in this section of Belknap County. * * * He attended the public schools of Meredith Bridge and the Gilford Academy, and after completing his education he taught school in this vicinity for ten years. In 1855 he went to South America as a gold hunter, returning in March, 1857. He was employed for eight years in the Laconia car shops, and in 1876 was appointed Judge of the Laconia Police Court, a position which he filled with dignity and justice for sixteen years. In 1891 he resigned, and was appointed Postmaster by President Harrison. He resigned the postmastership in May, 1895, and since that time has been retired from public life. Besides these two positions mentioned, Judge Jewett has held numerous other offices, both town and county. He was register of probate for two years; was collector of taxes in 1859; was a selectman of Gilford for three years, and in 1863 was recruiting officer for that town. He was in the New Hampshire Legislature in 1867 and 1868; was a member of the Laconia Board of Education for twelve years, and was Superintendent of the School Committee in Gilford in 1858. * * *

"Judge Jewett has been a Free Mason for over thirty years, having joined Mt. Lebanon Lodge in 1864, and he is a past master of the Lodge. He is also a member and past officer of Union Chapter, and belongs to Pilgrim Commandery, Knights Templar. In religious affairs he affiliates with the Congregationalists, and in politics he is a staunch Republican."

3662 HON. FRANCIS JEWETT (Isaac[1838], Isaac[852], Ezekiel[335], Samuel[117], Francis[24], Ezekiel[6], Maximilian[3], Edward[1]), was born in Nelson, N. H., Sept. 19, 1820. In a happy country home he grew to manhood with the advantages of early education common to a prosperous country town, supplemented by a course in the Baptist Seminary at Hancock, N. H., at that time a well known educational institution. He remained in this school until 21 years of age. He then turned his attention to trading in cattle and farming. At the age of 24 years he had accumulated sufficient means to purchase his father's farm. He bought it, but did not work it, preferring to engage in active mercantile life.

In 1848 he went to Lowell, Mass., and found employment with Clement Upham of Chelmford, Mass., who ran a slaughter house. For three years he worked in the slaughter house during the winter, returning to the farm in the summer season. For two years he worked for S. C. Parker, Middlesex Village. In 1851 he entered permanently in the business of slaughtering beef.

In 1877 he joined with Mr. Swift in forming the firm of Jewett and Swift, dealers in dressed beef. Mr. Jewett was the first man to sell dressed beef in Lowell. Since that time his success in every business enterprise in which he was interested was exceptional. This success was due to his tireless energy and unflinching perseverance, and he occupied a position in the front rank of the prominent business men of Lowell. The intense concentration of his mind in business gave character to his countenance, manners and habits.

In 1863 he entered the arena of public life, as a candidate of the Republican party, serving in the Common Council in 1864-65, Alderman in 1868-69, and Mayor in 1873-74-75.

To instance his popularity, in the campaign of 1873 he had as an opponent ex-Mayor Hosford, who ran against him as the citizens' candidate. In this contest Mr. Jewett was the only one on the Republican ticket who was elected, the entire aldermanic ticket of the Citizens being chosen. In 1875 he was nominated by the Citizens, and received a practically unanimous election. In 1877 and 1879 he was Senator from the Lowell district, and served as Councillor under Gov. Ames for three years. In 1880 he was presidential elector, casting his vote for James A. Garfield.

In the many positions of honor and trust which he filled he gave evidence of a determined will, an honest purpose, and sound judgment that commanded the good will of all classes. His character for moral, physical, an intellectual vigor was well known, and he possessed qualities of mind rare in their independent excellence and wonderful in their combination. His record as mayor is part of the history of municipal administration. It was the result of his firm convictions, and his reputation rests safely on the measures with which his name is identified. In the public judgment he was recognized as a leading citizen, in sympathy with every measure to promote public welfare, and many of the most useful and important public improvements of the period in which he was so conspicuous in active official service owe their origin and successful achievement, with all their untold utility, to his wisdom in preparation and his remarkable executive ability.

He was connected with the following institutions: Director of the Ayer Home for Young Women and Children, Director of the Wamesit National Bank from 1868, Senior Vice-President of the Merrimac River Savings Bank, and Chairman of the Committee on Investment. He was also Director of the Erie Telegraph and Telephone Co., President of the Middlesex Odd Fellows Building Association, President of the Proprietors of Odd Fellows Building, Director in the Swift Refrigerator Co., and Fifield Tool Co.

He was a member of the following fraternal societies: William North Lodge, Ahasuerus Council and Royal Arch Chapter of Masons, Pilgrim Commandery, Knights Templar. Mr. Jewett was a prominent Odd Fellow, being Past Noble Grand of Oberlin Lodge, which entitled him to a seat in the Grand Lodge. He was elected Grand Warden of the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts in 1879, and in 1880 Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts. For two years he was chosen Representative to the Sovereign Grand Lodge of the U. S., and he was also a member of Wannalancit Encampment of Lowell. He was a member of the committee to select a site for the Odd Fellows Home, Worcester being chosen, and was a Trustee of the Home, in the welfare of which he took great interest. Mr. Jewett married April 1, 1844, Selina Adeline Dodge of Stoddard, N. H., who was born in Stoddard May 11, 1824, daughter of Reuel and Chloe (Dunn) Dodge. He was an attendant of the First Baptist Church, and died suddenly at his home in Lowell, April 22, 1896.

6571 Sarah Orne, born in South Berwick, Me., Sept. 3, 1849. She was educated under private tutors and in the Berwick Academy. She began to write when quite young and has published the following books: "Deephaven" in 1877, "Play Days" in 1877, "Old Friends and New" in 1880, "Country Byways" in 1881, "The Mate of the Daylight" in 1883, "A Country Doctor" in 1884, "A Marsh Island" in 1885, "A White Heron and Other Stories" in 1886, "Betsey Leicester" and "The Story of the Normans" in 1887, "Tales of New England" in 1888, "The King of Folly Island and Other People" in 1889, and "Strangers and Wayfarers" in 1890. Several of these stories have been republished in France and England. Her stories are distinguished for their vivid coloring and their close and accurate delineation of various phases of New England life. Of her it has been said by the Nation: "Her instinctive refinement, her graceful workmanship, place her second only to Miss Thackeray." Miss Jewett has more distinctly a style than any other American woman.

A writer for the Boston Journal says of her: "I consider Miss Jewett the most interesting woman in Boston to-day. I do not think we have any other quite her equal.

"No more interesting thing can happen to an ordinary mortal than to be allowed to see her in an informal way, at the house of her most intimate friend, Mrs. James T. Fields, on Charles Street, to talk with her before the glowing grate fire, in the quaint reception-room, filled with rare curios, so that it even smells foreign; or mayhap, if the fates are very propitious, to be invited to lunch in the fine old dining-room overlooking the Charles River, and waited on graciously by Miss Jewett and Mrs. Fields themselves. If an ordinary mortal wants anything more interesting than this to happen her, let her be set down as a discontented, exacting prig.

"Miss Jewett is a woman of most charming personality. She has a bright, piquant face, that lights up beautifully as she talks, and a low, pleasant voice that gives one a sense like quiet at night and listening to the rustling of aspen leaves, soothing and restful. Her black hair shows just the faintest tinge of gray, but the color in her cheek and the sparkle of her eye tell the tale of youth still.

"Miss Jewett's working hours are in the afternoon, and when she has anything in hand she writes from about one until five. She writes, on an average, between three and four thousand words a day, although she has sometimes gone as high as seven, eight, and even nine thousand words a day. She usually thinks out her stories quite carefully beforehand, so that when she comes to write them she can do so easily and without much re-writing, although, of course, some of her stories she works at quite laboriously.

"There are stories that you write," she says, "and stories that write you. And I find that the ones that 'write you' do not need much working over the second time.

"She loves her country life with a true devotion that only a genuine nature worshiper can appreciate. I never feel prouder or more of the sense of owning and being owned, than when some old resident near Berwick meets me and says, 'You're one of the Doctor's girls, ain't ye?' It makes me feel as though that were really my place in the world.

"Miss Jewett was born in a fine old colonial residence that was built in 1740. It is situated in the village of Berwick, Maine, not far from Portsmouth, and this mansion is still her home. Her father, 'The Country Doctor,' died some years since, and her mother within the last few months. One sister and she still continue to occupy the old homestead during most of each year. A married sister lives close by. Miss Jewett has always lived an outdoor life. She rides, drives, and rows a great deal. When her father was living she went about with him a great deal, and that was the way in which, without realizing what the experience was worth to her, she got her marvelous insight into the life of country people of a quarter of a century ago. Before Miss Jewett's day no writer could exactly depict the phases of country life which she treats without making a burlesque of the attempt. It has taken Miss Jewett to show the world that the country dialect and country habits hide some of the noblest hearts and kindest words in the world.

"'When I was, perhaps, fifteen,' says she, 'the first "city boarders" began to make their appearance near Berwick; and the way they misconstrued the country people and made game of their peculiarities fired me with indignation. I determined to teach the world that country people were not the awkward, ignorant set those persons seemed to think. I wanted the world to know their grand, simple lives; and so far as I had a mission, when I first began to write, I think that was it. But now, when every village has its city visitors in the summer and the relations between the city and country are so much closer than they used to be, there is no need of my mission.'

"Her first story for the Atlantic was accepted before she was twenty. She had no literary friends 'at court,' and it was her own inimitable work which won her the success which has been so marked. She was always a delicate child and could not endure confinement of a schoolroom. Her education was, for the most part, got at home under the wise direction of her father. Miss Jewett says she misses a certain logical directness that comes only with training at good schools; but she would not have missed the outdoor life and association with her father for anything. Probably her own success as a writer was foreshadowed in her father's advice, constantly repeated, 'Don't try to write about people and things; tell them just as they are'—a thing she has certainly done."

4158 HON. WILLIAM ORRINGTON LUNT JEWETT (Samuel[2365], Epes[1136], Dummer[450], Jedediah[181], Jonathan[63], Joseph[11], Maximilian[3], Edward[1]), was born in Bowdoinham, Me., Dec. 27, 1836. He married June 3, 1869, Sarah Ellen Cox, who was born in Hunnewell, Mo., Oct. 5, 1851, daughter of John Valentine and Martha (Howell) Cox. When a boy Mr. Jewett removed with his parents to southern Indiana, and afterwards to Will Co., Ill., where he grew to maturity on a farm. Being of a studious nature and books being few, he read everything he could find; he studied Latin at night and read history at the rest time during the day, while keeping up with the others in the field work. His school training was in the county schools, at Lee Center Academy, the Plainfield and Ottawa high schools and Aurora Institute. In 1861 he enlisted in Co. E, Thirty-ninth Ill. Inft., and served until January, 1863, when he was discharged for injury to his right leg. Returning to Will County, he taught school and entered the law office of G. D. A. Parks of Joliet, Ill., where he remained until 1864, when he again enlisted, this time in Battery C, First Ill. Light Artillery, and marched with Sherman from Savannah, Ga., through the Carolinas and took part in the "grand review" in Washington in May, 1865. On the way from New York to Savannah, the transport on which he, Gen. John A. Logan, and many other soldiers were being conveyed South, was chased and fired upon by the privateer "Tallehasse." He was discharged at Springfield, Ill., June, 1865, and returning home soon entered the law school at Ann Arbor, Mich., and in the spring of 1866 was admitted to the bar in Michigan and by the Supreme Court of Illinois. He resided in Mt. Sterling, Ill., until the spring of 1867, when he removed to Missouri, where he taught school in Hunnewell and the surrounding country. In 1867 he opened a law office in Shelbina, Mo., having as a partner for a short time H. Paine Higgins, and afterwards, until 1871, Charles M. King.

In 1881 Mr. Jewett became interested in the Shelbina Democrat, a weekly paper, of which he is now the sole owner and chief editor; his daughter Martha being local editor. In 1876 he was elected prosecuting attorney of Shelby county and was re-elected two years later; was elected Representative to the Legislature in 1886 and again in 1888. Mr. Jewett has been president of the Missouri Press Association and for six years chairman of the Legislative Committee of the National Editorial Associaton; has been Grand Master of the Odd Fellows in Missouri, and at present is chairman of the Board of Visitors of the State University. He was also for some years a member of the State Board of Geology and Mines. A sketch of Mr. Jewett in "The Bench and Bar of Missouri" says: "He is still editor and has made it (The Democrat) one of the most independent and readable country papers in the State. He takes an enthusiastic interest in bringing the newspaper fraternity into closer touch with each other, and always takes a leading and speaking part at the annual convention of the Press associations." Mr. Jewett resides in Shelbina, Mo., and is still active ad vigorous, although 70 years of age.

4200 HON. STEPHEN JEWETT YOUNG (Betsey[2888], Daniel[1178], John[507], Moses[185], Jonathan[62], Joseph[11], Maximilian[3], Edward[1]), was born in Pittston (now Randolph), Me., Nov. 11, 1839. He married in Bangor, Me., Dec. 13, 1864, Mary Emerson, who was born in Bangor, Sept. 7, 1842, daughter of Albert and Martha (Young) Emerson.

"Mr. Young received his early education in the public schools, completing his preparation for Bowdoin College in the Gardiner, Me., High School. Although one of the youngest members of his class, he graduated at its head in 1859. He continued his studies at the University of Berlin and in other Continental cities. On his return to this country in 1862, he became instructor in modern languages in his Alma Mater and two years later was placed at the head of this department, a position he filled with eminent success for twelve years. During a portion of this period he also served as college librarian.

"In 1874 he was chosen treasurer of the college and thenceforth his principal occupation was the care of the finances of the institution and of similar trusts imposed upon him. He served at different times as a director of the Eastern Railroad, the Maine Central Railroad and the Portland and Rochester Railroad, and was for many years president of the Union National Bank. He was one of the trustees of the Maine General Hospital and was appointed by President Harrison one of the commission to examine the U. S. Mint. He was deeply interested in the welfare of the community and by his efficient co-operation various improvements were carried through. He represented his town in the Legislatures of 1878, 1879 and 1880, and was a member of the State Senate in 1883 and 1885. In each branch he took an active and influential part in Legislation.

"A man of unusual force and independence, he always had the courage of his convictions. Yet his firmness was more than equaled by the loyalty and conscientiousness with which he discharged every trust. His mental alertness, his remarkable conversational powers, and readiness with apt illustrations made him a most entertaining companion. A lover of music, he was a skilled performer upon the organ. His personal service in this direction was given for several years to the Unitarian Church, of which he was a staunch supporter.

"He was an accomplished linguist and philologist, speaking and writing with fluency in three languages and versed in the grammar of a score of others. He received the degree of LL. D. from Bowdoin in 1894. His sudden death from apoplexy occurred July 16, 1894, at Brunswick, Me." (By Prof. Little of Bowdoin College.)

4366 AUGUSTUS FIFIELD JEWETT (Fifield H.[2844], Samuel[1269], Maximilian[540], William[188], Aquila[84], Joseph[11], Maximilian[3], Edward[1]), was born in Weare, N. H., June 15, 1857. He married in Reno, Nev., Jan. 2, 1902, Edith S. Shriver, daughter of Augustus Frederick and Ellen Summerfold (Gish) Shriver. As a boy Mr. Jewett lived in Placer Co., Cal., where he attended the public schools of the neighborhood until his 17th year, when he entered the Sacramento High School and was a classmate of Col. Charles F. Crocker, William J. Davis, P. E. Platt, and others who have since become distinguished men of California. At a very early age he acquired a local reputation as a writer and speaker, and was several times sent by the taxpayers to present arguments on bills before various Legislative committees previous to reaching his majority. In 1880 he was made Sergeant-at-arms of the California Legislative Assembly, and later, acting on the advice of some of the most prominent men in the State, he entered the Hastings Law School, spending a year at that institution, and passed a very creditable examination. At the end of this period, hard work, over study, and a severe attack of measles, left him a physical wreck, and he spent the next four years in travel on land and sea, seeking a restoration of health. In 1886, sick and penniless, he went to Hanford, Cal., and engaged in the raisin industry, just then coming into prominence. Understanding this business thoroughly, he soon built up his broken fortunes and recovered his health. In 1889 he packed for Charles King the first full carload of raisins ever sent out of Tulare or Kings County. He owns a tract of raisin land two miles southwest of Hanford, and in 1890 and 1891 owned and conducted a raisin packing establishment in the town. He takes a deep interest in public affairs, and is a recognized leader in the Republican party; his ability as a campaign orator being so well known that the Republican State Central Committee engaged him to stump the State for that party in 1894, and he was assigned to address meetings in many important places in company with such men as Congressman Grove L. Johnson, the "Silver Tongued" Brusie of Sacramento, and other noted speakers of the State. He was again engaged in speaking in the campaign of 1906. His proud boast is that no man ever lost a dollar by him. He is a man of indefatigable genius and displayed great courage when, sick and without money, he started in the raisin business, in which he has raised himself to a position of independence.

His principal business is fruit raising, and while being a graduate of Jewett was a merchant and settled in Lynn, Mass., but later returned to Peterborough, where he died Jan. 29, 1861.

From Peterborough Transcript: "We record with sadness the death of our worthy and esteemed fellow citizen, Deacon George A. Jewett. His life was one of strict integrity and good morals, and his chief aim was, both by precept and example, that his virtues might be diffused throughout the entire community. His death just in the prime of life is a public loss. His obituary can be written in a few words: he was a good man and a Christian." His widow married his brother Charles.

4697 DAVID JEWETT (Joseph[2736], Moses[1369], Moses[646], Aaron[221], Jeremiah[69], Jeremiah[15], Joseph[4], Edward[1]), was born in Whitefield, Me., May 26, 1815. He married in Alna, Me., July 4, 1847, Jane Woodman Plummer, daughter of Nathaniel and Mary (Woodman) Plummer. She was born in Alna Jan. 14, 1820, and died in Whitefield, June 28, 1888.

Mr. Jewett was a farmer and resided in Whitefield. At an early age he became a member of the Baptist Church. He was an earnest Christian and one of the most faithful members; was superintendent of the Sunday school and an active teacher. Mr. and Mrs. Jewett lived on the home farm, caring for his parents the latter part of their lives. In November, 1887, their house was burned in the night, he and his wife barely escaping with their lives. Mrs. Jewett never fully recovered from the shock and died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. D. T. Longfellow in Whitefield. She was a faithful Christian, a member of the Congregational Church of Head Tide, in the town of Alna, Me. After the death of his wife Mr. Jewett lived with son, David N., in Head Tide, where he died Jan. 25, 1896, from apoplexy. Thus closed the life of one who was always active in Church and Sunday school work and who tried to live up to his interpretation of God's will.

4705 JAMES JEWETT (James[2743], James[1371], Moses[646], Aaron[221], Jeremiah[69], Jeremiah[15], Joseph[4], Edward[1]), was born in Alna, Me., Sept. 25, 1824. He married Thankful H. Atkins, daughter of Thomas N. Atkins. They lived in Gardiner, Me., where he died in 1887.

Child:

7168 Arthur, born Jan. 11, 1857; married Jan. 26, 1882, Sarah J. McCausland. Residence, Gardiner.

4706 HARTLEY JEWETT (James[2743], James[1371], Moses[646], Aaron[221], Jeremiah[69], Jeremiah[15], Joseph[4], Edward[1]), was born in Alna, Me., July 11, 1826. He married Sept. 3, 1850, Harriet A. Atkins, daughter of Thomas N. Atkins. She died in Gardiner, Me., March 5, 1905, aged 78 years and 10 months. In 1832 Mr. Jewett's parents moved from Alna to Hallowell, Me., and in 1841 to Gardiner. After leaving school Mr. Jewett naturally turned toward the occupation followed by his father, who was employed in Shaw & Sheldon's mill, sawing lumber by the thousand. He assisted his father until the summer of 1843, when he hired with William Clay as a cook on a raft boat. Cooking was not to his taste, and he soon asked permission to go on to the raft, which was granted, and for five years he worked in that position. He then entered into a partnership with Mr. Clay, their business being to collect and raft logs for the different mills. In 1850 this partnership was dissolved, Mr. Jewett continuing the business and at the same time, doing quite a profitable business buying logs in the woods and selling them at a rescale to the down river mills. In 1863 he commenced manufacturing lumber, leasing the mill owned and operated by William Sargent in Gardiner. The next year he bought the mill, and from that time until 1873, was a season of great prosperity with him. He not only operated his own mill to its fullest capacity, but also bought and operated the Hooker & Libby mill, the product of both mills finding a ready market. The panic of 1873 struck him hard, but his indomitable pluck carried him through, and he continued in this mill until 1880, when he sold it and bought the N. O. Mitchell mill. He expended a large amount in repairs and was doing a fine business when in August, 1882, he saw the results of his labors reduced to a mass of smoldering ruins. Almost before the smoke had cleared away, he was making preparations to rebuild, and in four months from that time he had a new mill in operation and was doing business at the old stand. Mr. Jewett continued in business until a few years ago, when he retired, and now enjoys a well deserved rest from business cares. He never could be induced to accept an office of any nature with but one exception. He has been a member of the Board of Trustees of the Methodist Church for several years, and is a most generous supporter of the church. His hand and purse are always ready to assist in every improvement and enterprise that will benefit the church and parish, and he is a regular attendant at the meetings. Mr. Jewett has made a record for integrity, industry, energy and whole-souled good fellowship that is indeed an enviable one. He resides in Farmingdale, Me.

Children, born in Farmingdale, Me.:

7169 Charles T., born Sept. 8, 1851; died Aug. 14, 1862.

7170 Thomas A., born Sept. 23, 1861. Mr. Jewett devoted considerable time in collecting data for a history of the Jewett family, which he kindly gave to the author of this work, thus aiding greatly in its accuracy and success. He is a prominent Mason; a traveling salesman, and resides in Farmingdale, Me., unmarried. He was an officer in the war with Spain.

4707 NANCY ELIZABETH JEWETT (James[2748], James[1871], Moses[846], Aaron[221], Jeremiah[69], Jeremiah[18], Joseph[4], Edward[1]), was born in Alna, Me., Sept. 25, 1829. She married Nov. 17, 1847, Peleg S. Robinson of Gardiner, Me. She died Sept. 27, 1875.

4708 JOHN JEWETT (James[2748], James[1871], Moses[846], Aaron[221], Jeremiah[69], Jeremiah[18], Joseph[4], Edward[1]), was born in Gardiner, Me., March 10, 1835. He married there April 25, 1858, Eunice C. Clark of Vassalboro, Me., who was born May 12, 1834.

Mr. Jewett commenced railroading when he was fourteen years old as a switchman in the Gardiner freight station. In a year or two he went on the road as a freight brakeman and has gradually been promoted to his present position. For many years he was conductor of a passenger train between Portland and Bangor, Me. He is the only conductor on the Maine Central whose name has been by universal consent given to the train he run. All patrons of the road called his train "Jewett's train," and what is more unusual, railroad men did not refer to him by his number, as they do every other train, but spoke of crossing "Jewett's," and called the train "Jewett's" in their despatches. He is the patriarch of conductors. Mr. Jewett commenced running on the road the first year after it was built, and has gone through everything the Maine Central has gone through. In all these long years not one of his passengers has been hurt. The record speaks for itself. His career came very near being cut short early. When he was running a freight his train dropped through the bridge across Seven-Mile stream, in Vassalboro. Seven men were on the train; all of them were hurt, but not one of them was killed, strange to say. In December, 1902, Mr. Jewett was

4812 HON. JOHN GODFREY SAXE (Elizabeth[2788], Samuel[1388], Thomas[668], Eleazer[236], Eleazer[72], Jeremiah[15], Joseph[4], Edward[1]), was born in Highgate, Vt., June 2, 1816. He married Sept. 9, 1841, Sophia Newell Sollace, who was born Nov. 4, 1818, daughter of Hon. Calvin and Sophia (Bascom) Sollace, of Bridgeport, Vt. Mr. Saxe graduated from Middlebury college in 1839 and received the degree of LL.D. from the same college in 1866. He studied law at Lockport, N. Y., and at St. Albans, Vt., and was admitted to the bar in 1843. His professional success was considerable, and in 1856 he was elected State's Attorney by the Democratic party. In 1859 and again in 1860 he was the Democratic nominee for governor. One day he met an old friend and brother Democrat, a chief justice in one of the courts. The judge jocosely asked if Mr. Saxe expected to be governor. "Yes," he answered, "I expect to govern myself under the misfortune of defeat, that is all." "Ah!" said the judge, "it is a great man who is governor of himself." "True," replied Mr. Saxe, "but he is still greater who is judge of himself." For several years he edited the Burlington Sentinel, and subsequently devoted himself wholly to literature and lecturing. In the palmy days of the old lyceum system he attracted brilliant and overflowing audiences, and was very popular everywhere. But it is chiefly as a poet that Mr. Saxe will be known by posterity, and more especially as a comic poet, though his serious efforts are very graceful and elegant. He was one of the most successful comic poets this country ever produced, resembling Holmes in the finish of his verse, but having the advantage over him in his faculty of punning. He has often been styled the Tom Hood of America, whom he greatly resembled in his poetic effusions and whom he considered his great model. Mr. Saxe's wit was spontaneous, not forced, and his more serious effusions are touching and pathetic. "The Briefless Barrister" and the "Cold Water Man" are among the best specimens of his punning facility. The former poem was the first he ever published and took immensely, being quoted in newspapers all over the country, and many times after its publication it was revived and went the rounds again. Among his longer poems are "Progress," "The Times" and "The Money King." Among his minor pieces the "Rhyme of the Rail" is a great favorite, both here and in England. It was first published in the Knickerbocker Magazine in 1843. It is a very good specimen of his style—light, playful, humorous and witty. "The Proud Miss MacBride" is a much longer poem, exceedingly humorous and full of satire upon the follies and pretensions of would-be aristocrats in this country. At the suggestion of James T. Fields, the late publisher of Boston, Mr. Saxe's poems were first collected and published in one volume in 1850, which went through many editions, the new poems of the author being added in each edition. "Clever Stories of Many Nations," rendered in rhyme, which first appeared in December, 1864, is among the poet's best productions. They are twenty in number—Italian, Persian, Arabian, Norwegian, German and of other nations—are admirably told. "The Tartar who Caught a Tartar," "The Blind Men and the Elephant" and "Ho-Ho of the Golden Belt" are in a marked degree characteristic of their author's genius. The work, like many other of Mr. Saxe's, was published with unique illustrations. "The Masquerade and other Poems," "Fables and Legends of Many Countries" and "Leisure Day Rhymes" are among his productions. Besides these poems, destined to be handed down to posterity, Mr. Saxe contributed a great number of minor pieces to newspapers and magazines, among them the Knickerbocker Magazine, the Atlantic Monthly and Harper's Magazine. Among the more serious poems of Mr. Saxe may be named "Jerry, the Miller," "I'm Growing Old," "The Church Bell," "Treasures in Heaven" and "Boyhood." Mr. Saxe was an extremely genial man and was always popular in society. He was a man of great affections, and his best love poems were addressed to his wife.

Mr. Saxe died at the home of his son in Albany, N. Y., in 1887. For twelve years he had been an invalid. In 1874 he met with a railroad accident while on a lecturing tour in Virginia, and barely escaped with his life. The shock thus caused to a naturally delicate and nervous temperament, was the first cause of his illness. Soon following this he lost his wife and three daughters and his eldest son. These afflictions brought on fits of melancholy, which became worse as he increased in age. He was buried in the family lot in Greenwood, Brooklyn. Below are given two of his humorous poems which attracted much attention:

THE COLD WATER MAN.

It was an honest fisherman,
  I knew him passing well;
And he lived by a little pond,
  Within a little dell.

A grave and quiet man was he,
  Who loved his hook and rod;
So even ran his line of life,
  His neighbors thought it odd.

For science and for books he said
  He never had a wish;
No school to him was worth a fig
  Except a school of fish.

In short, this honest fisherman
  All other toils forsook;
And, though no vagrant man was he,
  He lived by hook and crook.

Digitized by Google

He ne'er aspired to rank or wealth,
  Nor cared about a name;
For, though much famed for fish was he,
  He never fished for fame.

To charm the fish he never spoke,
  Although his voice was fine;
He found the most convenient way
  Was just to drop a line!

And many a gudgeon of the pond,
  If made to speak to-day,
Would own, with grief, the angler had
  A mighty taking way!

One day, while fishing on a log,
  He mourned his want of luck—
When, suddenly, he felt a bite,
  And, jerking—caught a duck!

Alas! that day this fisherman
  Had taken too much grog;
And, being but a landsman, too,
  He couldn't keep the log!

'Twas all in vain with might and main
  He strove to reach the shore;
Down, down he went to feed the fish
  He'd baited oft before!

The jury gave their verdict that
  'Twas nothing else but gin,
That caused the fisherman to be
  So sadly taken in.

Though one stood out upon a whim,
  And said the angler's slaughter—
To be exact about the fact—
  Was clearly gin-and-water!

The moral of this mournful tale
  To all is plain and clear—
That drinking habits bring a man
  Too often to his bier.

And he who scorns to "take the pledge,"
  And keep the promise fast,
May be, in spite of fate, a stiff
  Cold-water man at last!

EARLY RISING.

"God bless the man who first invented sleep!"
  So Sancho Panza said, and so say I:
And bless him, also, that he didn't keep
  His great discovery to himself; nor try
To make it—as the lucky fellow might—
A close monopoly by patent-right!

Yes; bless the man who first invented sleep
  (I really can't avoid the iteration);
But blast the man, with curses loud and deep,
  Whate'er the rascal's name, or age, or station,
Who first invented, and went round advising,
That artificial cut-off,—Early Rising!

"Rise with the lark, and with the lark to bed,"
  Observes some solemn, sentimental owl;
Maxims like these are very cheaply said;
  But, ere you make yourself a fool or fowl,
Pray just inquire about his rise and fall,
And whether larks have any beds at all!

The time for honest folks to be abed
  Is in the morning, if I reason right;
And he who cannot keep his precious head
  Upon his pillow till it's fairly light,
And so enjoy his forty morning winks,
Is up to knavery; or else—he drinks!

Thomson, who sang about the "Seasons," said
  It was a glorious thing to rise in season;
But then he said it—lying—in his bed,
  At ten o'clock, A. M.,—the very reason
He wrote so charmingly. The simple fact is,
His preaching wasn't sanctioned by his practice.

"Tis, doubtless, well to be sometimes awake,—
  Awake to duty, and awake to truth,—
But when, alas! a nice review we take
  Of our best deeds and days, we find, in sooth,
The hours that leave the slightest cause to weep
Are those we passed in childhood or asleep!

'Tis beautiful to leave the world awhile
  For the soft visions of the gentle night;
And free, at last, from mortal care or guile,
  To live as only in the angels' sight,
In sleep's sweet realm so cosily shut in,
Where, at the worst, we only dream of sin!

So let us sleep, and give the Maker praise.
  I like the lad who, when his father thought
To clip his morning nap by hackneyed phrase
  Of vagrant worm by early songster caught,
Cried, "Served him right!—it's not at all surprising;
The worm was punished, sir, for early rising!"

4813 COL. PETER SAXE (Elizabeth[2788], Samuel[1396], Thomas[665], Eleazer[226], Eleazer[72], Jeremiah[18], Joseph[4], Edward[1]), was born in Highgate, Vt., July 27, 1819. He married Sept. 4, 1839, Sarah Keith Drury, of Highgate.

Mr. Saxe left his home when quite a young man and moved first to Western New York, and then to Troy, N. Y., and again to Battle Creek, Mich., where he was in business many years, and finally in 1870 moved to San Francisco, Cal., where he remained until the year of his death. He was an exceedingly handsome man and like his four brothers, was over six feet tall, with a commanding presence. He was famous for his wit and humor, a Democrat in politics and beloved by all with whom he came in contact. He died in San Francisco, Nov. 7, 1892. His widow died there in 1896.

Children:

7260 Rollin Peter, born Aug. 22, 1840; married Jodelphia Amelia Atwell.*

4814 JAMES SAXE (Elizabeth[2788], Samuel[1396], Thomas[665], Eleazer[226], Eleazer[72], Jeremiah[18], Joseph[4], Edward[1]), was born in Weybridge, Vt., Nov. 9, 1823. He married in Bridgeport, Vt., Oct. 9, 1850, Sarah Storrs Sollace, who was born Dec. 9, 1828, daughter of Judge Calvin and Sophia (Bascom) Sollace, of Bridgeport.

Mr. Saxe was a fine type of an old country gentleman. He was always a Democrat, but never a politician and during the Civil War he contributed to the Northern cause in many ways. A man of distinguished appearance, fully six feet two—ever dignified and courteous. He was admitted to the Franklin County bar in St. Albans, Vt., in 1850, but afterwards gave up his profession to follow mercantile pursuits, in which he was very successful. He died suddenly of cancer in 1884, at St. Albans, and soon after his death his widow and family removed to Montreal, Canada, where they now reside.

Children, born in St. Albans, Vt.:

7264 Elizabeth Sophia, born Sept. 18, 1852; married July ——, 1873, John B. Holmes, of Boston, Mass. He died about 1883. She resides in Montreal.

7265 Frank J., born July 2, 1854. He graduated from the Norwich University in 1873; moved to Troy, N. Y., the same year and commenced the wholesale lumber business in the office of Saxe Bros.; became a partner in the firm in 1882 and moved to Albany, N. Y., the same year. Saxe Bros. dissolved partnership in 1893 because of the death of Charles G. Saxe, and Frank J. Saxe wound up the business and in 1895 moved to New York city and was made Manager and Secretary of the Export Lumber Co., which company he has continued with to the present day and is also interested in many other enterprises both in Canada and the United States. The New York Directory of Directors says of him as follows:

Frank J. Saxe, No. 42 Broadway:

Atlantic Coast Lumber Co., Secretary and Manager;
Export Lumber Co., Manager and Director;
Export Towing Co., President and Director;
Otter Creek Boom & Lumber Co., Director;
Tupper Lake Manufacturing Co., Manager and Director;
West Virginia Southern R. R. Co., Vice-Pres. and Director;
White Fish Lake Improvement Co., Director.

He also is connected with the following companies:

National Lighterage Co., of New York, Pres., Manager and Director;
The Altamont Realty Co., of New York, Manager and Director;
Georgetown Water Co., of S. C., Secretary and Director;
Chaleurs Bay Mills Co., of Campbellton, N. B., Director.

Mr. Saxe has traveled extensively both in this country and Europe and the West Indies. He is a member of the Maritime Exchange of the Port of New York and the City Club of New York, the Oakland Golf Club, Bayside, L. I., and the Flushing Country Club. He never married, but owns a handsome place at Flushing, N. Y., which he makes his home and where he keeps many horses. During his residence in Albany, he organized the Albany Country and Albany Hunt Club and was President for many years of the latter.

Mr. Saxe is well known throughout the United States as a wholesale lumber manufacturer and owns many thousand acres of timber lands in this country and Canada.

4839 PHILO DENNIS JEWETT (Solomon W.[2792], Samuel[1386], Thomas[668], Eleazer[226], Eleazer[72], Jeremiah[15], Joseph[4], Edward[1]), was born in Weybridge, Vt., July 31, 1837. He married in San Mateo, Cal., Oct. 8, 1873, Jeanie Deans Ketcham, who was born in Sudbury, Vt., March 3, 1851, daughter of Andrew Jackson and Maranda (Buckmaster) Ketcham.

Mr. Jewett was educated in Weybridge and the Middlebury, Vt., Academy, and later graduated at Racine, Wis., College, in 1858, to which point his father and family had removed. In the spring of 1859, he started to Pike's Peak, with an ox-team, accompanied by his brother Solomon. They reached St. Joseph, Mo., and after proceeding about 300 miles westward, they met wagon trains of Pike's Peak emigrants, who were disappointed with the prospects there, and were on their return eastward. These unfavorable reports determined the Jewett brothers to change the course of their journey, and they proceeded overland on foot, and reached California in September, that year, having walked the entire distance across the plains from the Missouri river, and consuming about five months' time. The last day of their travel they covered about thirty-five miles, and arrived at Hangtown, now Placerville. The following spring Mr. Jewett returned to Carson valley to get cattle which they had left there the year before. He spent about sixteen months in teaming in and about Virginia City, and then returned to California. He and his brother embarked in the stock business near the Tejon reservation, now the Beale ranch, in the fall of 1860, and located the "Rio Bravo" ranch, remaining there until the fall of 1874, when they sold the ranch and a portion of their sheep for $42,000. They then removed to their farm adjoining the town of Bakersfield, having previously purchased about 2,000 acres of choice land.

In company with the late Julius Chester they erected the first store in Bakersfield, the second building in town. In 1874 he was one of the incorporators of the Kern Valley Bank. In 1865 these enterprising pioneers raised the first crop of cotton ever planted in Kern Co., on 120 acres of soil. The prosecution of this enterprise required the importation of Chinamen for labor from San Francisco. A fine crop of cotton was produced, but before the crop was gathered the war closed, and cotton fell from $1.00 to 25 cents per pound. That and the high price of labor made the venture an unprofitable one, and cotton-raising was abandoned.

In 1885 Mr. Jewett removed with his family to San Francisco, where he owned, with his brother-in-law, Mr. John Farnham, the celebrated Crystal Baths, the largest and most complete salt water baths in the world, which are located at North Beach.

He was a member of the California Chapter of Royal Arch Masons of San Francisco and of California Commandery No. 1, K. T.; he also was a member of the Islam Temple of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine and the socialistic order of the Native Sons of Vermont of San Francisco. He died Feb. 5, 1902, and in accordance with his wishes during his life his remains were cremated.

From The Independent of Bakersfield, Cal.: "In the death of Philo D. Jewett in San Francisco, Wednesday night last, Bakersfield and Kern Co. suffered the loss of one of her very best and most highly respected citizens. * * * Few men live lives so worthy of emulation as his. Weakness is said to be the common heritage of mankind and all men seem to have their faults, but his was a character upon which no blemish could be seen. Honest, fearless, generous, charitable. he was the embodiment of all that makes a good, true and faithful citizen and a most valuable member of society.

"Some men have negative or rather passive lives and they have no enemies because they do nothing to make them, but the life of Philo Jewett was decidedly an affirmative one. He was an active, enterprising man, conducting business of more than ordinary magnitude. yet he had those inestimable qualities that enabled him to deal with his fellow men in a manner so just and magnanimous. that no man could but honor and respect him."

His widow and family reside in San Francisco.

was born in Weybridge, Vt., April 27, 1843. When he was thirteen years of age his parents moved to Racine, Wis., where he continued in attendance upon the public school. A short time before he was to graduate and when he was less than eighteen years old the Civil War broke out and he enlisted April 24, 1861, in Co. F, 2d Wisconsin Volunteers. This regiment afterwards became a part of the famous "Iron Brigade." He enlisted as what was known as a three months man, but at the expiration of that period he re-enlisted for the war. He was in the first battle of Bull Run and was one of the last to leave the field; then, with a helping comrade, he carried a wounded friend to a place of safety. In this battle he received a slight wound, as he also did in the Second Bull Run fight. He was in the battles of South Mountain, Antietam, Fredericksburg, crossing the Rappahannock below Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville, and Gettysburg, where he received a severe wound in the right thigh and was in the hospital nearly a year and from which he never fully recovered. He was commissioned 1st Lieutenant of Co. F, 39th Wisconsin Volunteers, May 17, 1864, and was discharged with his regiment. He then entered the Regular Army and was commissioned 2d Lieutenant of the 10th U. S. Infantry, Feb. 23, 1866; was commissioned 1st Lieutenant July 28, 1866, and resigned April 25, 1877, Brevet rank, Brevet Captain, March 2, 1867, for gallant and meritorious service in the battle of Gettysburg.

A story is related illustrative of the esteem in which Gen. Sherman held him. During Mr. Jewett's service in the army after the war, he applied for six months' leave of absence, stating in his application that he intended to resign and enter business at the end of that period. This was refused on account of the intention to resign being considered an improper statement in an application for leave of absence, and the Adjutant General said that "nothing but his gallantry and high standing prevented a revocation of his detail on recruiting service," which he held at that time. A relative went to Washington to see the President (Grant) in his behalf. The President said the request should be granted and subsequently while this relative and a Congressman were in the Adjutant General's office, Gen. Sherman came in and said that any member of the "Iron Brigade" could have any reasonable request granted—"yes, whether it was reasonable or not, by God," and directed the Adjutant General to use the telegraph to forward the business.

In 1876, on account of ill health, he was granted a year's leave of absence, and went to Kern Co., California. He purchased a ranch on Mt. Breckenridge, and, having resigned from the army, lived there for three years. In 1880 he became a resident of Bakersfield, Cal., and soon afterward accepted the position of assistant cashier of the Kern Valley Bank, in which he continued to the time of his death.

He was granted a small pension, but after drawing it for a year or two he wrote the authorities at Washington that he thought his country owed him nothing more, and stated that no further amounts would be received, at the same time returning the last draft that had been sent him.

He was a benefactor to many, a friend to the weak and helpless, and was always foremost in all that was for the good of the country and its people. His main, his leading characteristics were charity and good will. These qualities were never better shown than when he refused to become a member of the Grand Army for the reason that the war was over, and that he believed that the dead past should bury its dead, and the reunited country live in the present with malice towards none, charity to all, and forgetting that brother had ever been arrayed against brother.

He was a devoted Episcopalian and was Senior Warden and Treasurer of St. Paul's Church. He was ever ready to help, and the Sunday night before his death, by reason of the minister's illness, he read the service, and by what seems a strange coincidence, selected an eloquent sermon upon death, closing with the words, "So live that ye may ever be prepared for death."

He was drowned in the Kern river, May 30, 1892, in the heroic, yet vain attempt, to save the lives of two small children who had fallen into the rapids. The Iron Cross of the Iron Brigade, which he was entitled to wear, was found upon his body when it was cast up by the waters. He married in Racine, Wis., Jan. 19, 1869, May H. Knight, daughter of Albert G. and Delia (Gazley) Knight. His widow and family reside in Berkeley, Cal.

5086 MARY JEWETT (Lester[2002], Eleazer[1397], Ichabod[666], Eleazer[226], Eleazer[72], Jeremiah[15], Joseph[4], Edward[1]), was born in Seneca, N. Y., March 17, 1839. By Emma Stark Hampton: "Seldom do we meet, in public or private life, so rare a character as that embodied in that faithful friend and co-worker of many eventful years, Mary Jewett Telford. In her the attributes that stand for all that is best and purest in womanhood were fully developed and wonderfully combined; no doubt a creation wrought out by the Master Hand, to produce a medium whereby to solve some great problem in life, or propel the motor power of some uplifting influence toward the betterment of the human race.

"Rare mental endowments were her heritage, a legacy from heaven. A silvery tongue gave voice to heaven-born thoughts in speech so clear, so convincing, so true, that, like the reverberations of the great canyons in which her heart took delight, the echoes scintillated and came back again and again with such telling force as to stamp her words forever on the minds of those who heard.

"The humblest pen became a magic wand at the touch of her fingers and was instantly infused with thrilling gems of thought, transmitted swiftly from a heart that knew no guile, but overflowed with great, passionate throbs of sympathy and pity for the weak, the world-weary, the wicked, the wayward. The touch of her hand, the sound of her voice, the mere knowledge of her presence, gave one strength and inspiration. With her helping hand, dreaded burdens rolled away and anticipated mountains, hard to climb, melted before one's vision into pleasing undulations, easy to surmount. * * * Early in life she showed great mental ability. Was educated in district school and State Normal at Ypsilanti, Mich., and began teaching at fourteen years of age. Later, taught instrumental and vocal music and French in a young ladies' seminary in Kentucky. At sixteen she began writing for publication. The family removed to Lima, Mich., prior to the Civil War, and in State history are mentioned prominently. When Fort Sumter was fired upon and troops were called out, patriotism so burned in her breast she was impelled to in some way serve her country, and determined to go to the front as nurse. To-day to carry out such determination would hardly create comment, but in those days the Evangelines and the Florence Nightingales were almost single in number, and to enlist in service such as theirs demanded the spirit of a heroine and martyr.

"She naturally met strong opposition, but after many seasons of prayer and debate and persuasion, she closed her school and, armed with a government order, supplemented by a permit from Governor Blair, the famous war Governor of Michigan and a personal friend of her father, Dr. Lester Jewett accompanied her to the afterward famous Mason and Dixon's line. She was detailed to Nashville, Tenn., the only woman in a hospital where there were six hundred men. Then came the struggles, the hardships, the times that tried the souls of men and women, the victories over self and homesickness, the labors that day by day made up a history and a record for Mary Jewett over which the angels well might sing and weep,—weep in sympathy as she bent day and night over forms so soon to return to mother dust, or sing for joy when her skilled hand had nursed back to life and hope some despairing boy in blue.

"Well do I remember an incident of 1891, the year of the Grand Army Encampment in Detroit. It was my privilege to entertain Mrs. Telford. One day, on reaching home toward evening, I found her sitting close beside a comrade in the library. Marks of tears and glow of smiles were on their faces. She at once introduced him as a patient in one of the long-ago hospitals, and quickly he added: 'And, dear madam, I want to say that this blessed woman, whom I've always called 'my angel,' snatched me from the grave down in Tennessee and saved my life; sick and discouraged and homesick, she made me live and get well. I've longed to see her if yet alive, and accidentally seeing in the National Tribune she would be here, I came all the way from Louisiana to hunt her out, to clasp her hand and look again into the face of my Evangeline.'

"Volumes might be filled with such unwritten records earned by this grand woman, and the half not be told.

"On receiving her discharge as army nurse, she returned home, broken in health, which she never fully recovered. By special act of Congress in 1892, she was granted a pension. (She was the first woman to receive a pension from the U. S. Government.) Her army experience greatly strengthened her desire to elevate and better mankind, and thereafter her life was zealously devoted to all things good. She espoused the temperance cause, and her persuasive voice sounded its praises from a hundred platforms.

"In 1865, at her home in Michigan, she married Jacob Telford, a Civil War veteran, whom she knew in childhood, and to the day of his death, little more than a year ago, they were still ardent lovers. He lies buried in the National Cemetery at Murfreesboro, Tenn., where he received severe wounds from which he always suffered. The only wish of this unselfish woman who devoted her whole life and all her earnings to others, was that her poor, tired body might at last rest beside the one she loved. In her last days she said with a sigh, 'I may be selfish in wanting to lie beside dear Jacob, so never mind; I shall soon slip away and be with him around the bend of the river.'

"This dear woman died in Hinsdale Sanitarium, Ill., Aug. 5, 1906, subsequent to a critical operation, and, like a soldier in the field, lies buried where she fell.

"When the call was made in 1883 at Denver for a National Woman's Relief Corps organization, Mrs. Telford was instantly interested. Well she knew the needs of the boys in blue. Living then in Denver, she became one of the twenty-three charter members, joining from Colorado. Her ability was recognized, and she was made first Corresponding Secretary. Colorado soon became a Department, and she was elected its second Department President. During the two years she served, the Department came prominently to the front through the great work accomplished, and her bright, business-like General Orders. Having gained a wide national reputation as a platform speaker and a brilliant writer, her influence was far-reaching.* * *

"At a critical time, when the National Home was in the throes of uncertainty, her clear brain and wise pen did good service. She was always ready to help in emergencies, but nothing would induce her to be a candidate for the National office, not even the desire of her greatest admirers to have her name enrolled in the list of Past National Presidents.

"Going from Iowa to Colorado in 1873 in search of health, Mrs. Telford became editor of the Colorado Farmer; founded the Challenge, the organ of the State Prohibition Party and of the W. C. T. U., in 1884 and was its editor for five years. She identified herself with the white ribbon organization after meeting Miss Willard on the latter's first visit to Colorado. Mrs. Telford was a candidate for Lieut.-Governor on the Prohibition ticket.

"She was President of the Central Union of Denver in the early '80s, and much of the good work accomplished by that union was begun during her administration. A Rest and Rescue Home in the slum district, a Day Nursery and the Woman's Exchange, were among the enterprises that enlisted her special interest, and later the Cottage Rescue Home work claimed her unfailing efforts for its advancement.

"Four months before her death she became associate editor of The Union Signal."

5090 NATHAN JEWETT (Lester[2883], Eleazer[1397], Ichabod[888], Eleazer[236], Eleazer[72], Jeremiah[15], Joseph[4], Edward[1]), was born in Lima, Mich., July 17, 1847. He married in Toledo, Ohio, Oct. 5, 1865, Rocelia Brown, who was born near Toledo Sept. 14, 1841, daughter of Orlando and Maria (Allen) Brown. Mr. Jewett spent his childhood on his father's farm in Wastenaw Co., Mich., and attended school near his home until past fifteen years of age, when he went to a high school in Ann Arbor, but his father's death cut short his school opportunities. He went to Toledo, where he engaged in the express and draying business, but having a mechanical and inventive mind, he soon turned to the selling of farm machinery and traveled for the Sulky Reaper Co. a number of years, then with the Marsh Harvester Works. In 1882, having invented and patented a number of devices for reapers, he was engaged by the Plano Mfg. Co. of Plano, Ill., as head of their pattern department.

In 1887 he went into business in Chicago, manufacturing Venetian window blinds—his own invention—but the great strikes among the building unions in 1888 cut all such business to the ground. He then devoted much of his time to lecturing for the temperance cause. All of his life he was a strong advocate of temperance and right laws, taking an active part in a number of presidential elections, representing the Prohibition party in active campaigns through the States of Illinois, Indiana, and Ohio. He was always a loyal citizen, a faithful friend, and a noble and loving father.

5308 COL. JOHN ELLIS JEWETT (Hugh J.[2968], John[1420], Thaddeus[684], Caleb[228], Eleazer[72], Jeremiah[15], Joseph[4], Edward[1]), was born in St. Clairsville, Ohio, June 17, 1841. He married Emma Stevens, who died in Kansas City, Kan., Sept. 19, 1875. He married second, Bessie Jacobs.

Col. Jewett was of varied acquirements and brilliant parts and had the advantages of an excellent education. While he was a student at the Ohio Wesleyan University, at Delaware, Ohio, the Civil War broke out and he enlisted in the 3d Ohio Infantry. On July 23, 1861, he was commissioned 1st Lieutenant and transferred to the 23d O. V. I. He was detailed for duty on the staff of Gen. Rosecrans and arrived at the scene of war in Virginia July 27, 1861. Here he was badly wounded, but upon recovery immediately applied for active service, and was transferred on Nov. 1, 1861, to the 78th O. V. I., as Acting Regimental Adjutant. Shortly after he was detailed for staff duty under Gen. Leggett, with whom he served in the campaign of Pittsburg Landing, Corinth, and Vicksburg, under Gen. Grant. He was with Gen. Sherman in the South during the early part of his famous March to the Sea, commanding an advance guard of 250 picked mounted men as far as Atlanta, when he was taken sick and sent home to recruit. He next conveyed a detachment of Prisoners of War to Chicago. At this time he received a commission as Captain in the regular army and was assigned to duty on Gen. McDowell's staff as additional Aide de Camp. At the battle of Fredericksburg his horse was shot under him but he escaped injury.

He was in the battle of the Wilderness and other decisive engagements. On March 12, 1865, he was appointed Lieutenant Colonel of the 193d O. V. I., and in this rank was in command of the post at Winchester, Va., at the close of the war. It is said that he was the youngest officer in the Union Army in command of a regiment, being then only 24 years of age. His last active service was in the Shenandoah Valley campaign.

His military career was very active and won the admiration of all who were associated with him. He seemed to be a born soldier and the requirements of that life presented no difficulties to him. At the end of the war he was offered a commission in the regular army, which he declined in order to study law. He was admitted to the bar in Baltimore, then went to Kansas 7893 George Ellis, born Nov. 5, 1877; married July 22, 1902, Louise Pratt of Hartford, Conn., who was born July 22, 1876, daughter of James Church and Jennie A. (Peck) Pratt. They reside in Chicago, Ill. One child, William Kennon, born July 23, 1904.

5310 GEORGE MANYPENNY JEWETT (Hugh J.[2903], John[1430], Thaddeus[884], Caleb[226], Eleazer[72], Jeremiah[16], Joseph[4], Edward[1]), was born in St. Clairsville, Ohio, March 23, 1845. He married in Zanesville, Ohio, May 4, 1868, Helen M. Applegate, who was born in Zanesville March 8, 1849, daughter of Daniel and Margaret J. (Morrow) Applegate.

Mr. Jewett was educated at the Pennsylvania Military Academy at Chester, Pa., and at the U. S. Military Academy at West Point. A physical disability from which he had suffered since childhood made it impossible for him to undergo the severities of the routine and discipline at the latter place, so he resigned before completing the course—in his graduating year.

He married in 1868 and went to Reno, Kan., to acquire a practical knowledge of farming on a ranch belonging to his father. Two years later, returning to Zanesville, Ohio, he established the "Fair Oaks" Stock Farm, and acquired a national reputation as a breeder of trotting horses and Jersey cattle. He became prominent in Ohio politics; and although he never held office, his judgment was valued in counsel and he was constantly busied with problems of party management and organization, as Committeeman and Delegate to conventions, including the National Conventions. In 1886 he abandoned his stock breeding enterprises and removed to Maryland, to be near his father, who had just retired from the Presidency of the Erie Railroad and was striving to renew life and youth amid the surroundings of his boyhood, at "Lansdowne," Md.

Mr. Jewett's political friends urged him to reconsider his decision to leave Ohio just at the time when his political future seemed so bright, and as an overwhelming inducement assured him that he could have the Democratic nomination for Governor if he would remain. He was proof against temptation; his desire to help cheer the declining years of his father, from whom he had long been separated and to whom he was devotedly attached, outweighing his personal ambitions.

It may be noted here that Mr. Hoadly, who received the Democratic nomination alluded to, was elected Governor, making Mr. Jewett's sacrifice notable in these latter days where filial impiety is the rule.

His political qualifications were not unrecognized in his new surroundings, for in 1896 he was the Democratic nominee for Congress in the 2d Maryland District—honorably following in his father's footsteps, a leader of forlorn hopes in a party crisis.

In 1890 his hearing became affected, and this affliction, increasing yearly, proved a great handicap to one who had been engaged in so many different fields:—an organizer of business and railroad enterprises, a promoter of mining and industrial development, a student of politics and sociology. His library is to him a constant solace since his enforced withdrawal from the activities of life, and divides his attention with the various agricultural problems arising upon the old family estate, "Lansdowne," where with his family he resides the greater part of every year.

Leavenworth, Kan., May 1, 1868. He married in Pomeroy, Wash., Dec. 29, 1897, Ella Jewell Darby (correctly spelled Darbee), who was born in Hunnewell, Mo., Aug. 23, 1876, daughter of James Armstrong and Martha Isabella (Cox) Darby.

When a child Mr. Jewett's parents moved to a farm near Linwood, Kan., where the family lived until 1884, when they emigrated to Garfield Co., Territory of Washington.

His education was obtained in the common schools of Kansas and Washington, and Whitman College at Walla Walla and the University at Seattle, Wash.

For a number of years he was a teacher in the country schools of Garfield Co., and in the city schools of Pataha City, where he held the position of principal.

In 1892 he commenced the study of law in the office of M. F. Gose, at Pomeroy, and was admitted to practice in June, 1894. At the election in the following fall he was elected prosecuting attorney and was re-elected in 1896, when his party was largely in the minority. He is actively engaged in the duties of his profession and has a good practice.

In lodge circles he is prominent, having been at various times a member of the grand lodges of the K. of P., Redmen, and the F. of A. He acted as the chairman of the judiciary committee of the Redmen of Washington and the funeral law and forms now in force and used by that lodge are largely, if not absolutely, as prepared by him. He is now chairman of the judiciary committee of the F. of A. of Washington, and the present constitution and general law of the State of Washington was adopted in 1905 after revision by the committee, and in August, 1905, he was a delegate to the Supreme Lodge of that order, which met in Buffalo, where he was a member of one of the most important committees which was appointed to investigate charges of fraud in connection with the election of one of the Supreme Chief Rangers of the order.

He resides in Pomeroy, Wash.

He graduated from the University of Vermont in the class of 1847, having been a member of the Signa Phi and Phi Beta Kappa fraternities. He received the degree of Master of Arts afterwards, and having entered the Harvard Law School in 1847, was subsequently admitted to the bar. He became editor and proprietor of the Burlington, Vt., Sentinel in 1848, associating with himself, his friend, John G. Saxe (see 4812), who eventually succeeded to its ownership. He was printer for the State Constitutional Convention of 1849 and Postmaster of Burlington. In 1851 he removed to Kenoska, Wis., and began the publication of the Kenoska Democrat the same year. Was Assistant Clerk of the State Senate and Postmaster of Kenoska in 1853; Colonel on the Governor's Staff in 1854 and candidate for Presidential Elector the same year. Having twice been Mayor of Kenoska, he became editor of the New York Daily News in 1861. He purchased the Daily News of Milwaukee, Wis., in 1862, in company with Joseph M. Lyon, and continued its publication after the death of Mr. Lyon until 1874, when he retired. He was Alternate Delegate to the National Conventions held in Cincinnati, Baltimore and Charleston in 1856-60; Delegate to the National Convention at Chicago in 1864 and Baltimore in 1872. He was Chairman of the Wisconsin Democratic State Central Committee in 1872 and 1873; the Wisconsin member of the Democratic National Committee from 1864 to 1868 and again from 1872 to 1876; was a member of the Milwaukee Charter Convention in 1867 and afterwards, having been a member of the Milwaukee School Board, was temporarily Superintendent of Public Schools. He became one of the Regents of the University of Wisconsin in 1874 and soon afterwards President of that body, and remained identified with the University until his death. He was a member of the Wisconsin State Senate from 1877 to 1881.

Having been vestryman and diocesan delegate at different times, he was one of the representatives of the diocese of Wisconsin in the general convention of the Church (Protestant Episcopal) held in New York and Philadelphia.

Mr. Paul was instrumental in discovering the practicability of working hydraulic cement from strata of limestone appearing along the banks of the Milwaukee River, north of the city, and in determining the commercial value of the product. He, with others, organized the Milwaukee Cement Co., in 1874, and became one of its directors and managed its affairs until 1885, when he was appointed Postmaster of Milwaukee; later, having begun to suffer from the effects of fifty years of earnest work, he resigned and died, while temporarily absent from home, in Kansas City, Mo., May 19, 1890. His widow resides in Milwaukee.

5688 ADAMS JEWETT (Hibbard[3225], Luther[1605], Daniel[761], Benjamin[288], Benjamin[98], Nehemiah[18], Joseph[4], Edward[1]), was born in Dayton, Ohio, Feb. 9, 1840. He married in St. Marys, Ohio, Nov. 7, 1867, Augusta Nancy Baker, daughter of Jacob and Nancy Cooper (Wade) Baker. She was born in Harden, Ohio, March 31, 1849, and was living on a part of the old homestead near Celina, Ohio, in 1903. She began to teach school when but a girl in her fourteenth year and taught up to the time of her marriage. She is a woman of strong and determined piety, of a gentle, patient spirit, and a lover of nature and poetry.

Mr. Jewett attended the public schools of Dayton and Troy, Ohio, until he was sixteen years of age. He then entered Antiock College, at Yellow Springs, Ohio, where he studied four years. He esteemed it the privilege of his life to have sat in the classes of Horace Mann, and to have distinguished himself in mathematics under him. He then studied one year in the New York College of Agriculture. In 1861 he settled on what became known as the Jewett farm on the northern border of the large reservoir in Mercer Co., Ohio. Here he engaged in farming and business, in Celina, which was about two miles distant. He was six feet tall, of square shoulders, and rather spare nervous body. Was a man of keenly analytical mind, retentive memory, and generous even to recklessness. He died from la grippe Jan. 19, 1899.

Mr. Jewett worked on his father's farm until the fall of 1894, when he entered the Preparatory School of the Ohio Wesleyan University at Delaware, Ohio. He spent four years in study, two at the University and two at home, when he sought admission upon examination to the Central Ohio Conference of the M. E. Church. His motive for entering Conference at that time was to procure funds to enable him to further prosecute his studies. At the Conference of 1898 he was stationed at Wapakoneta, Ohio, in charge of the Wapakoneta circuit. He was stationed at Fort Recovery, Ohio, in the fall of 1899, in charge of the Fort Recovery circuit. Here he remained for three years, till he had completed the Conference course of study, when he returned to the University to resume his studies. One child, born in Fort Recovery, Ohio, July 11, 1900; died unnamed, July 16, 1900.

Josiah[1078], Joseph[780], Nathan[268], Joseph[100], Joseph[22], Joseph[4], Edward[1]), was born in Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 14, 1843. He married there Oct. 3, 1865, Elizabeth Foster Danforth, daughter of George and Mary (Foster) Danforth. She was born Oct. 26, 1845, and died in Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 9, 1905.

Gen. Jewett's parents removed to Buffalo, N. Y., where his father established a business house known as the John C. Jewett Manufacturing Co., in 1849. He received his education in the public schools of Buffalo and early developed a strong inclination for a business training. At the early age of sixteen he entered the establishment of his father, and in due course of time mastered the details of the business, and, with but few interruptions, he has given it his continuous attention ever since. At the breaking out of the Civil War he entered the service of the State of New York as a private in Co. C, 74th Regt., N. G. N. Y. In May, 1863, he was elected Second Sergeant, and held the position during the regiment's participation in the campaign which followed Lee's invasion of Pennsylvania, from June to August of that year. He returned to Buffalo as First Sergeant of his company. June 29, 1865, he was commissioned as First Lieutenant; April 3, 1866, he was promoted to a Captaincy; April 11, 1877, was appointed Major and Inspector of rifle practice of the Thirty-first Brigade; Oct. 9, 1879, he was promoted to the position of Inspector of the Fourteenth Brigade; Oct. 25, 1880, appointed Lieutenant-colonel and Chief-of-staff of the Fourteenth Brigade, and on March 29, 1884, he was elected Brigadier-General of the Eighth Brigade. He resigned, however, on Dec. 7, 1885, in order to take the position of President and General Manager of the John C. Jewett Manufacturing Co., of Buffalo. He has been actively engaged since that time in the management and direction of the business interests of this corporation. He is also Vice-president of the Cary Safe Co. of Buffalo. On March 1, 1894, he received from the Mayor of Buffalo the appointment of Commissioner of Police, which position he most acceptably filled until he was himself elected Mayor of the city on Tuesday, Nov. 6, 1894.

As a business man he stands very high in the mercantile circles of Buffalo, and is especially noted for the excellent executive abilities which he has displayed. An exemplary disciplinarian through the military training he has had, he is admirably qualified to discharge the manifold duties pertaining to a complicated and extensive plant, and these qualities were no doubt duly considered by the chief magistrate of Buffalo when he selected General Jewett for the post of Commissioner of Police. The ability and fidelity he exhibited in the administration of the position so strongly popularized him with the people of Buffalo that he was elected to the mayoralty by a majority of nearly ten thousand, the largest ever given a Mayor of Buffalo. His first year in office was an exceptionally busy one. It was characterized by the number of difficult and important questions which arose, all of which he handled with great ability and firmness. His first veto prevented the awarding of the street cleaning contracts to favored bidders.

Digitized by Google

He demanded that the contracts be let to the lowest bidders, and thus saved the tax-payers $24,000. He introduced the Detroit plan of utilizing the vacant land in the city for the benefit of the poor, and carried the project through with great success. Five hundred and seventy-eight families were taken off the poor-books of the city and made self-supporting in this manner. Other features of his administration was his signing of the Niagara Power franchise and his approval of the Buffalo Traction Co.'s franchise. General Jewett is a strong advocate of the free-school system and twelve new school buildings were completed during his administration, including the handsome new Masten Park high school. He is also an advocate of municipal ownership of the waterfront, and if this idea is eventually carried out the City of Buffalo will be the owner of the finest docks on one of the best harbors in the world, and the city treasury will be deriving an immense revenue therefrom. His photograph appears on the opposite page.

TENTH GENERATION

6122 COL. STEPHEN SHANNON JEWETT (John G.[3571], Smith[1786], Samuel[836], Samuel[329], Samuel[117], Francis[24], Ezekiel[8], Maximilian[2], Edward[1]), was born in Laconia, N. H., Sept. 18, 1858. He married June 30, 1880, Annie L. Bray of Bradford, England. Col. Jewett is a member of the law firm of Jewett and Plummer, of Laconia, and has not only won a reputation throughout New Hampshire as a successful lawyer, but probably no man of his age is better or more widely known in Republican circles. He acquired his early education in the public schools of his native town and under the private tuition of his father, who was for some years a school-master. At the age of seventeen years he entered the law office of Hon. Charles F. Stone and was prepared for examination to practice law in 1879, but being under age was compelled to wait a year. He was admitted to practice in March, 1880, and at once commenced to follow his profession in Laconia, conducting an independent business until 1889, when William A. Plummer became his partner. During his years of practice but few important cases have appeared on the Belknap Court docket without his name appearing in connection, either for plaintiff or defendant. In 1884 he accepted the position of Clerk of the Supreme Court for Belknap Co., as an accommodation for the convenience of the Court, and served for a short time. He drafted and secured the passage of Laconia's city charter; was the first City Solicitor and has held the position ever since.

Col. Jewett is actively interested in numerous local enterprises outside of his professional duties. He is a Director of the Laconia National Bank, the Laconia Building and Loan Association, the Laconia Land and Improvement Co., the Standard Electric Time Co., the Masonic Temple Association, etc.

He has a wide reputation as a successful manager and leader in political campaigns. He first actively engaged in politics in 1876, when a youth of seventeen, and was soon recognized as a leader in political matters. He conducted the affairs of the Republican Town Committee from 1880 to 1890, and becoming a member of the Republican State Committee in 1884, was elected Secretary of that body in 1890. His capacity has been tried in several hard-fought campaigns, and he served as chairman and manager of the Republican canvass in 1892 and 1894, winning signal victories in both instances.

In the New Hampshire House of Representatives he has served as Clerk, Assistant Clerk, and Engrossing Clerk. In 1894 he was elected as a Representative and served as Speaker of the House, in which capacity his long public service in political matters and extensive acquaintance peculiarly fitted 7224 HON. HAMILTON KINCAID JEWETT WHEELER (Sarah[4795], Levi[2784], Thomas F.[1885], Thomas[665], Eleazer[226], Eleazer[72], Jeremiah[15], Joseph[4], Edward[1]), was born in Bennington, Vt., Aug. 5, 1848. He married Oct. 15, 1873, Mary Storrs Braley and settled in Kaukaku, Ill. Mr. Wheeler was graduated from the law department of the Ann Arbor University in 1872 and was admitted to the bar in September, 1872. Since then he has had an extensive practice, including all cases of litigation, except criminal cases, which he has rarely undertaken. In politics he is a Republican and in 1884 was elected to the State Senate from Iroquois and Kaukaku Counties, Ill. He was Chairman of the Committee of Judiciary and served on many other committees. He was one of the "one hundred and three" who elected John A. Logan to the United States Senate and took an active part in the contest. In 1892, regardless of the Democratic victory, he was elected over a Democratic candidate for the Unites States Congress by a good plurality. In Congress he served on several committees, among which was the Committee on Elections. After serving his term in Congress he returned to his law business and now has with him his son, under the firm name of H. K. and H. H. Wheeler. He also has a large farming interest in North Western Iowa.

Personally he is the most genial of men, making friends of all he meets, and having a fund of anecdotes, with his gift of language, makes his conversation a pleasant feature in social and business life.

7260 ROLLIN PETER SAXE (Peter[4618], Elizabeth[2788], Samuel[1388], Thomas[688], Eleazer[238], Eleazer[72], Jeremiah[18], Joseph[4], Edward[1]), was born in Troy, N. Y., Aug. 22, 1840. He married Dec. 20, 1865, Jodelphia Amelia Atwell, daughter of Leroy and Emeline Poudy (Cook) Atwell of Atwell Corners, Pomfy, N. Y. She was born at Atwell Corners Jan. 2, 1848, and died in Syracuse, N. Y., Feb. 4, 1876. Mr. Saxe was educated in the Ann Arbor University and was one of the early members of the Sigma Phi Fraternity. After leaving college he joined his father in the lumber business in Troy, but later left the firm and in 1868 he cornered the market on cherry lumber and was known to the lumber trade of that time as "Cherry Saxe." In 1872 he joined his father in the live stock business, the firm being known as Peter Saxe and Sons. They were the first to transport Durham and Holstine stock to the Pacific Coast as well as Berkshire swine. In 1882 he went to New Zealand, where he gathered a herd of 300 head of sheep for breeding purposes which he imported to San Francisco, Cal. This, at that time, was the largest shipment of live stock ever carried over the thousands of miles of the Pacific, and so successful was his management that he lost none. Mr. Saxe was the personification of the word optimist; although several times wealthy, he also saw days of adversity, but as was often said, "If Saxe is broke he don't know it." He died from heart disease in Los Angeles, Cal. Mr. Saxe was a Mason of high degree and his remains were cremated; his ashes are now in the Masonic Temple, in Oakland, Cal.

Mr. Saxe was educated in the Ginn's School of Syracuse, N. Y., and matriculated with the class of 1888 at Syracuse University in the junior year, but owing to the illness of his uncle, Joseph A. Atwell, he gave up college to enter business. He has served in various capacities on different newspapers and is now engaged in the profession of Advertising Contractor. He is the author of several papers on historical subjects as well as "The Story of the Red Men," a narrative tracing the Improved Order of Red Men from the Sons of Liberty of the Boston Tea Party. Thousands of copies of this work have been printed under the auspices of the Superior body of Red Men and circulated throughout the United States. He is a Mason, a K. of P., a Red Man, and member of several other fraternal societies. Residence, Syracuse, N. Y. One child, Sarah Emeline, born in Fayetteville, N. Y., Dec. 2, 1890.

At the age of sixteen Mr. Jewett enlisted in Co. B, 132d Ill. Vols., and served through the Civil War. He then entered business and later became a traveling salesman. In 1874, following the year of financial disaster, he removed to White Salmon, Wash., where with the aid of his wife, he engaged in the nursery business. He owns the most beautiful home along the Columbia River. Over a quarter of a century ago he purchased 600 acres of land and commenced to make White Salmon what it is. He has met with obstacles, but has always overcome them. Full of push and enterprise, he has gone ahead and endeavored to make a city. It was he who inaugurated and installed the water system and laid out the city and offered much to all. He still has 300 acres of excellent land, and there is no visitor but what goes into ecstacies over the beautiful surroundings of his home. One of the strong features of the home is the summer resort, accommodations being made for thirty guests or more. Mrs. Jewett has almost a national reputation as a hostess, and every year entertains many easterners who come to take advantage of the beautiful place. Every arrangement is made for the entertainment, and it is a jolly colony that enjoys her hospitality. As a horticulturist there is none better known than Mr. Jewett, and both he and Mrs. Jewett take an active part in Grange matters.

JEWETTS WHOSE ANCESTRY THE AUTHOR HAS BEEN UNABLE TO TRACE BUT WHO ARE EVIDENTLY DESCENDANTS OF EDWARD JEWETT OF BRADFORD.

9597 ABRAHAM JEWETT. He was about 54 years of age July 2, 1691. He was a tanner and married in Rowley, Mass., Feb. 2, 1661, Ann Allen, daughter of Bozoan and Ann Allen. "Abraham Jewitt and Ann Alin married the second day of the second moneth 1661" (Rowley Record). She was then living in Rowley with her mother, who had married Joseph Jewett (see 4).

Abraham Jewett and John Jewett (see 9617) first appear in the Rowley records the same month and day when each take a wife, and from many acts and business dealings seem in some way connected with Maximilian and Joseph Jewett, although there is no record of relationship.

There is an old family legend, handed down from generation to generation, that Maximilian and Joseph Jewett were accompanied to America by a nephew or nephews, and it may be, and in fact, is possible, that Abraham and John Jewett were the sons of William Jewett, the eldest son of Edward Jewett (1). There was without doubt some relationship between them.

Abraham Jewett resided in Rowley and his home was the estate sold April 8, 1737, by his grandchild, Anne Swett, to David Dresser.

He had the following land laid out to him in Rowley: "To Abraham Jewett five Acrees Bee it more or less lyeing on the East of William Laws his marsh and lyeing part of it against the end of Severall small lots and buting on the Creeke on the north and one on the River on the south as afforesaid, Aug. 6, 1661" (Rowley Record). He held two freeholds in Rowley in 1677.

The inventory of his estate was taken April 30, 1694, by Ezekiel Jewett, Joseph Jewett, and Nehemiah Jewett. His widow, Ann, was the administratrix. She died Feb. 9, 1721. "Died Ann Jewet, Abraham Jewet's widow Feb. 9, 1721" (Rowley Records).

Children, born in Rowley, Mass.:

9598 Deborah, born Dec. ——, 1664; married Nathaniel Knowlton.*

9599 Ann, born June 20, 1667; bapt. Aug. 9, 1668. "June ye 20, 1667, An the daughter of Abraham Jewit borne ye above said day" (R. T. R.). She married June 10, 1690, Francis Palmer (his 2d wife), son of Sergeant John and Margaret (Northend) Palmer. He was born Oct. 4, 1657, and died April 19, 1733. She died Feb. 27, 1714-5. He married June 28, 1795, Mary Davis, who was born Sept. 10, 1775, daughter of Joseph and Sarah Davis of Dudley, Mass. Mr. Jewett lived in the family of his uncle, Samuel Harris, of Oxford, Mass., until he was 19 years of age, when he went to Pittsfield, where he learned the trade of wheelwright. He later became a farmer. A portion of his farm was once occupied by a colony of French Huguenots, the remains of the old fort being still in existence in 1895. It was immortalized, both in song and story, by Mrs. L. H. Sigourney. The place is now covered with white and purple grape vines, currant bushes and hop vines growing in a semi-wild condition, said to be the descendants of those planted by the Huguenots.

Mrs. Jewett died in Oxford, Mass., July 6, 1844. Mr. Jewett after living many years in Dudley removed to Woodstock, Conn., where he died Feb. 2, 1852.

9793 ALBERT GALLATIN JEWETT (Enoch[9742], Timothy[9688], Stephen[9655], David[9633], Isaac[9620], John[9617]), was born in Northampton, Mass., May 24, 1825, and received his education in the public schools of the town, famous in the religious annals of New England as the home and pastorate of the Rev. Jonathan Edwards for nearly a quarter of a century, 1727-50, and for more than 250 years a leading and typical Massachusetts community in all that makes for the general culture and character of its citizenship. During his young manhood he was employed in his father's wood-turning shop, and later "going out West" in 1842, to Brecksville, Ohio, with his father, and living in a log cabin until the land was cleared and a home built for the family. Returning to Northampton in 1844, he learned and worked at the trade of carpenter and joiner, and in 1848 removed to the adjoining town of West Hampton, where he met and married Vileria Augusta Loud, who was born in West Hampton Nov. 29, 1829, daughter of Capt. Francis and Paulina (Parsons) Loud, and granddaughter of Major Caleb Loud. Here they made their home for more than fifty years, with the exception of a few years absence, and celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in Roxbury, Mass., Jan. 29, 1900. Both were active and influential in the church and Sunday-school interests of the town, and esteemed by all as good neighbors and friends of all good works. Mrs. Jewett died Nov. 29, 1903, sincerely mourned by all who knew her.

In town and public affairs Mr. Jewett's native ability and sterling character earned and received the confidence and respect of his fellow townsmen, serving as Selectman, Assessor, and Overseer of the Poor for sixteen years; as Deacon of the Congregational Church for many years; a Notary Public, and in 1881 as Representative of the district to the General Court and Legislature of Massachusetts.

For the past twenty years Mr. Jewett has been engaged in the care of estates and other duties in connection with investments, and although nearly sightless, is still active in body and mind. His portrait appears herewith.

9794 EDWARD JEWETT (Enoch[9742], Timothy[9626], Stephen[9555], David[9533], Isaac[9620], John[9617]), was born in Northampton, Mass., Jan. 2, 1828. He married in Springfield, Mass., about 1856, Sarah Ward, and died in Milwaukee, Wis., March 18, 1899. His widow was living in Grand Rapids, Mich., in 1906.

9797 SYLVESTER JEWETT (Ansel[9743], Timothy[9626], Stephen[9555], David[9533], Isaac[9620], John[9617]), was born in Northampton, Mass., Aug. 18, 1824. He married there Jan. 17, 1849, Maria Jewett (see 9788). They settled in Northampton and soon removed to Pelham, Mass., where he at once took a deep interest in the affairs of the town. He was first elected upon the Board of Assessors in 1858, and from that time until his death there were but few years that he was not an officer of the town, either as Selectman, Assessor, or as a member of the School Committee. On the School Board he was elected for three terms of three years each, and in all served eleven years. He served as Assessor for thirty years, and for twenty years of the time was also on the Board of Selectmen, most of the time serving as chairman of both boards. For most of this time the Selectmen were also the Overseers of the Poor, which increased the burden of responsibility upon the chairman not a little. Mr. Jewett was quite often chosen as Moderator of the annual, as well as the special, town meetings, and in every position of responsibility he was called upon to fill discharged the duties laid upon him with intelligence and faithfulness. Very few men have served the town with more desire for its best interest than did Mr. Jewett, and but one man served more years. In politics he was an Anti-Slavery man, and upon the formation of the Republican party he gave his support to it and labored zealously for its success and the overthrow of slavery. He was also active in religious work, being an active member and officer of the Second Congregational Church at Amherst, Mass., but mingled freely with the Methodist people in religious work. In 1869 Mr. Jewett was nominated by the Republicans of the Fifth Hampshire District for Rep-

Mr. Jewett was a ship carpenter and a maker of combs in Boston, Mass., in 1808 and 1809, his bride living in East Haddam. In October, 1809, he visited the banks of the Connecticut River in Massachusetts with the intention of purchasing a farm there, but failed to locate. In 1811, with his family, he migrated to Pennsylvania and settled in the township of Bridgewater, in Susquehanna County, where he continued to make his home until his death. He built a log house, which they occupied until 1822, when the frame house now owned by their grandson, Nathan R., was constructed. He died in 1861. Mrs. Jewett was an unusual woman, of a highly religious temperament. Despite a limited education, she was a lover of classic literature and found time to read with diligence such works as Homer and Virgil, although the wife of a pioneer farmer and mother of nine children. An acrostic she composed upon her husband's name reads:

"Not all those orbs that high in splendor roll
And all the wealth that's known from pole to pole
(Though hills were silver and though rocks were gold)
Half weigh in price the worth of thine own soul.
Ask then, that God, who gives the stars to burn,
Nor ever did a humble suppliant spurn,
Just how to make thy soul's election sure,
Eternal wealth, how thou mayest best secure,
Wake then to duty and without delay
Engage with might the gospel to obey
That, when the trump through heaven and earth shall sound
Thou mayest in robes of spotless white be found.

"Brooklyn, Nov. 9, 1834."

She died Feb. 23, 1865.

Y., from 1856 to 1860; rector of Christ Church, Dayton, Ohio, from 1861 to 1879, and was elected professor of pastoral theology and librarian at the General Theological Seminary Feb. 1, 1889. He was married Dec. 30, 1863, to Sophia Seymour, daughter of Rutger Bleecker and Mary Forman (Seymour) Miller of Utica, N. Y. The honorary degree of D. D. was conferred upon him by Racine in 1877 and by the General Theological Seminary in 1889, and that of LL. D. by Hobart in 1890. He was the author of "Communion Wine" (1866), "Diabology," "The Person and Kingdom of Satan," being the Bishop Paddock lectures for 1889. He achieved eminence in the mastery of Hebrew and was the author of two theological volumes. He took his own life by cutting his throat at Manhattan Beach, Cal., Aug. 26, 1907.

10994 DR. MATHEW WINFREE JEWETT (Thomas[10986]), was born in Midlothian, Va., Feb. 26, 1849. He married in Danville, Va., July 30, 1871, Alice Gertrude Motley, daughter of Jordon D. and Mary E. (Waddill) Motley. Dr. Jewett entered school when nine years of age and continued to attend until he was thirteen years old, when he enlisted as a private in the 59th Virginia Inft., and served in North and South Carolina, Georgia and Florida; returning to Virginia with his command when Petersburg was threatened in the early part of 1864, and was in close proximity to the "Crater" in July, 1864, when that mine was exploded. He served through the War and surrendered at Appomattox, being then sixteen years of age. He then entered the United States Navy, in 1866, where he became ship Corporal, and was discharged in 1869. He returned to Midlothian and entered a store as a clerk, but soon obtained a position in a wholesale house in Richmond, Va., where he remained a short time, and in Jan., 1871, engaged in the general merchandise business in Danville, Va., but the confinement of this vocation soon broke his health and he sold his store and engaged in the leaf tobacco business, which he conducted for a year, when he formed a copartnership with Col. S. A. Shock and Col. James McKee, at Statesville, N. C., for the purpose of conducting a commission or warehouse business for the sale of leaf tobacco. He later became Deputy U. S. Marshall, which position he filled for a year and a half, when he became Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue, where he remained for eight years; during this time he read medicine at night. In 1880 he resigned and attended lectures at the University Medical College of New York and later received his degree from the Baltimore Medical College. He settled in Danville, Va., where he followed his profession until 1893, when he removed to Ivanhoe, Va., and accepted the position of resident physician to the New River Mineral Co. He has been Postmaster of Ivanhoe a number of years; Justice of the Peace, and member of the Republican County Committee. He is medical examiner for the New York Mutual Life, the New York Life, New York Home Life, North Western Life, and the Maryland Life Insurance Co's. He is a member of the I. O. O. F. Resides in Ivanhoe, Va.

11024 JOHN ROGERS JEWITT, was born in Boston, Lincolnshire, England, May 25, 1783. He married in Boston, Mass., Dec. 25, 1809, Hester Jones, who was born in Bristol, England, March 27, 1787, and died in Middletown, Conn., Feb. 16, 1836. He died in Hartford, Conn., Jan. 7, 1821. Mr. Jewitt sailed from Hull in 1802 and settled in Middletown, Conn., about 1813. He was author of a book well known years ago, "Narrative of the Adventures and Sufferings of John R. Jewitt; only Survivor of the Crew of the ship Boston; During a Captivity of Nearly Three Years Among the Savages of Nootka Sound; With an Account of the Manners, Mode of Living and Religious Opinions of the Natives." Mr. Jewitt was the second son of Edward Jewitt, blacksmith, of Boston, England. His mother died when he was three years old, leaving an infant daughter and an elder brother. He was intended for a profession, and at the age of twelve years was placed in the then well-known school of Mr. Moses, at Donnington, where he remained some years. After leaving school he was apprenticed to Dr. Mason, an eminent surgeon, of Reasby. The calling was not to his liking, however, and he soon induced his father to cancel the indenture, and he returned home and took his place in his father's shop, where he soon developed great skill and ingenuity in the business. The family moved to Hull, Eng., toward the latter part of the century, where his father engaged in ship-building and repairing. In 1802 the ship Boston, Capt. John Salter, of Boston, Mass., owned by F. &. T. Amory, of Boston, was at Hull, taking in a cargo of goods for a trading voyage to the northwest coast of America. Mr. Jewitt shipped as armourer. The ship left the Downs Sept. 3, 1802, stopped first at the Island of St. Catharines; passed Cape Horn Dec. 25, and on March 12, 1803, made Woody Point in Nootka Sound, and proceeded about five miles up the sound to Friendly Cove, where she anchored. On March 22d the Indians induced a number of the crew to go with them salmon fishing, and treacherously murdered them, and, returning to the ship, killed those remaining there, with the exception of Mr. Jewett, who was badly wounded, and John Thompson, the sailmaker, who was below when the attack was made, and secreted himself. His life was spared at the request of Mr. Jewitt, whom the chief had resolved to keep a prisoner on account of his skill as an iron worker. They remained in captivity until July 19, 1805, when they were rescued by Capt. Hall, of the brig Lydia of Boston. As the brig was bound for China, he sailed for Canton, which he reached in Jan., 1807. He left there in February, 1807, and reached Boston, Mass., after a voyage of 114 days. In this book the name is spelled both Jewitt and Jewett. There is little if any doubt that he was of the Yorkshire family.
